

RUSK ON A-TESTS:

'We'll Keep Trying For Treaty'

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk said today the U.S. will make every possible effort to achieve a treaty banning nuclear tests in spite of its new round of atmospheric tests in the Pacific.

Rusk told a press conference that nations and people around the world deeply regret that the nuclear arms race goes on, but he said there is a deep understanding of the United States' need for testing in view of Russia's rejection of an effective test ban treaty.

The U.S. itself regrets the necessity for the decision to test, Rusk declared, but he said the country must meet its responsibilities.

On other foreign affairs problems, Rusk told reporters:

Berlin—In his talks with Soviet leaders agreements have not been worked out on any particular point, in spite of a statement by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko earlier this week that some agreements in principle had been achieved. A number of issues related to Berlin could fall into place readily if the central disputes over the future of the city were settled.

Disarmament—Russia's refusal to accept an international inspection system to safeguard a nuclear test ban gives a gloomy outlook for general disarmament.

Summit—Soviet Premier Khrushchev's recent statement that any new summit conference should be carefully prepared means there is a sober realization on all sides that any new summit meeting should not be allowed to fail.

Three Slain After Wild Car Chase

ELMWOOD PARK, Ill. (AP)

Two men and a woman were shot to death today as they sat in a wrecked car at the end of a relentless chase.

The victims, killed by .38-calibre pistol shots, were identified by police as: Phillip Scavo, 36, of Elmwood Park, a massive man who formerly managed a tavern-restaurant.

Ronald Scavo of Chicago, younger brother of Phillip.

Lydia Abshire, 28, of Chicago, a divorcee who was employed in an appliance factory in this Chicago suburb.

The killings occurred shortly before 4 a.m. after Phillip Scavo's auto swerved from a street and smashed into a house, causing minor damage.

Police said that apparently several shots were fired during a chase. After the crash, a gunman apparently approached the wrecked car and finished off his victims.

SCOTS 'BAN-BOMBERS' INVADE U.S. CONSULATE

GLASGOW (AP)—Scottish ban-the-bomb demonstrators stormed the United States Consulate here today, then staged a sit-down strike inside the building.

Squads of police had to carry them out first to waiting patrol wagons.

SCOUTS SWARM THROUGH CITY

Scouts from centres throughout B.C. were having a "whale" of a time today before Queen's Scout ceremonies at Government House. A total of 312 Scouts were scheduled to receive certificates from Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes this afternoon in the annual ceremony. Vancouver Island and mainland Scouts arrived Wednesday and will leave Friday. At Thunderbird Park today

U.S. Hits Moon With Spacecraft

Feat Hailed Despite 'Failure'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The United States scored a major advance in space today when the crippled spacecraft Ranger Four crash-landed on the far side of the moon.

It was the first U.S. success in seven attempts to land a piece of hardware on the moon, and virtually duplicated the feat of Russia's Lunik II, which hit the moon Sept. 12, 1959.

James E. Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, called the shot another in "the long strides in space we have made in the last year."

He said the Ranger Four was "much more complex than anything the Russians have attempted."

Dr. William Pickering, director of NASA's jet propulsion laboratory which built Ranger Four, said that despite the failure of a key electronic system in the spacecraft, the fact that it hit the moon "gives us confidence we can send instruments to the moon with the accuracy needed."

ANOTHER IN '62
He said another Ranger equipped to take close-up television pictures of the moon will be launched by the end of the year.

Although there was no way of seeing the actual impact, scientists said Ranger Four's trajectory before passing behind the moon assured that it would land in the predicted area.

The 700-pound vehicle, launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Monday, completed the 231,486-mile journey to the moon in 64 hours.

Electronic failures kept Ranger Four from completing most of its missions. It carried several scientific instruments, including a television camera to take closeup pictures of the moon's surface. But a timer designed to operate these devices went haywire shortly after launching.

Scientists at the U.S. Space Agency's jet propulsion laboratory, where Ranger Four was built, tracked its faint radio beacon with an 85-foot diameter dish-shaped antenna at the Goldstone Tracking Station on the Mojave Desert 50 miles north of Barstow, Calif.

U.S. and British scientists worked closely for more than two years to devise today's complex payload, which during the development stage was known by the code name SSI.

The U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration provided the booster rocket, designed and built the satellite structure and installed power and radio tracking equipment.

Four British universities fashioned the six scientific experiments. NASA's world-wide tracking system was to acquire data from the satellite and relay it to the British universities for analysis.

Bonner Not Told Of Phone Call

(See also Page 33)

Attorney-General Bonner today said he did not know that confessed boy-killer Charles Heathman's cousin phoned Vancouver police from Seattle 24 hours before he was picked up.

"Nobody has advised me of any call," he said.

During the 24-day hunt for Heathman, which ended when a Victoria man spotted him in Seattle Monday afternoon, Mr. Bonner severely criticized the Vancouver Sun which had given $500 and a 12-hour "break" for Heathman's statement.

The paper replied that police had time and opportunity to pick up Heathman before he arrived in Seattle with his cousin, Mrs. Anna Willoughby.

Mrs. Willoughby added to the controversy Wednesday when she said she phoned Vancouver police from Seattle the day before he was picked up. She told police Heathman was with her and she would take him back Tuesday or Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Vancouver radio station CKNW, which offered a $1,000 reward, said R. J. McMichael, 1289 Tattersall Drive, is definitely in line for part of the money but a final decision will have to be made by the police commission.

Mr. McMichael spotted Heathman in a Seattle bar and led police to him.

Mac to See De Gaulle

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan may meet with President de Gaulle in Paris after his return from the United States and Canada, diplomatic sources said today. The meeting would probably take place in June.

Centennial Flashback . . .

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

APRIL 26

Court of Assizes met and immediately adjourned, much to the annoyance of empaneled jurors who had made the long walk over the bridge for nothing.

The schooner Alpha discharged 71 tons of coal at Esquimalt for the use of Her Majesty's Ships.

The steamer Governor Douglas was caught by a high wind while coming alongside the Hudson Bay Company's wharf, and bumped against a small schooner moored there. Little damage was caused either ship, but a man who had been sitting on the rail of the schooner had a leg badly crushed. It was amputated later.

Reds Show Anger, Remain at Talks

AUSSIES ASK 'NO CHANGE'

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Australia today asked Britain and the six Common Market countries for continued preferential treatment in the British market if and when Britain joins the continental trade group.

An Australian embassy spokesman said Australia asked to be allowed to retain its present degree of preference in the British market against non-Common Market countries.

Starr to Name Rail Chairman

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Labor Minister Starr said today he expects to nominate at the beginning of next week a chairman for a conciliation board to hear arguments in a contract dispute between Canada's 110,000 non-operating railway employees and the country's railways.

He described as "nonsense" a charge by the employees' negotiating committee that he was delaying establishment of the conciliation board.

Strikers Routed
MONTREAL (CP)—An estimated 500 strikers made a motion to stop two trucks from leaving west-end depots of two strike-bound trucking firms today, but fell back before police cars escorting the transports.

STEEL FIRMS INDICTED ON PRICE FIX

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted U.S. Steel Corporation, Bethlehem Steel Company and two other steel companies on charges of conspiring to fix prices and rig bids.

The indictment said the bids were for sales of steel forgings to the U.S. Army, Navy, electrical companies and other purchasers.

The indictments are not connected with the recent price increase in steel, in which U.S. Steel and Bethlehem posted a $6 per ton increase, then withdrew it under pressure from the Kennedy administration.

New Violence Rocks Algeria

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Europeans massed in central Algiers today amid a continuing wave of violence throughout Algeria.

Armed riot police rushed to the area of the central post office, armored cars blocked streets and light planes hovered overhead as the Europeans gathered. No reason for the massing was given.

Terrorists killed 16 persons throughout the North African country today. Ten of the dead and wounded were victims of pistol and tommy-gun attacks in Algiers by the Secret Army Organization.

The other six dead were in the western port city of Oran.

Keep Debates in House, Diefenbaker Tells Pearson

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today that Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson had his chance to debate the election issues in the Commons.

"That's where the debating is done," he said at a press conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker was commenting further on Wednesday night's challenge by the Liberal leader in a speech at Charlotte-town, for a face-to-face television and radio debate on the election issues. (See page 12)

Wednesday night the Progressive Conservative prime minister dismissed this, saying, "I am not interested in providing TV audiences for others."

His comments today obviously had in mind the Kennedy-Nixon TV debates of the 1960 United States election campaign.

... rejects challenge

"Our system is different from the American system," he said.

"We meet in constant debate if the leader of the opposition is in the Commons and not out in the country. That's where the debating is done. In the United States that isn't so."

Mr. Diefenbaker also described as "simply not true" an Ottawa news report that, at the last caucus of Conservative MPs in Ottawa, he had promised that salaries of MPs would be increased to $15,000 from $10,000 if his government was returned.

He said he doesn't think there was any discussion of that at the caucus. But he added: "Generally across the country there is a feeling that salaries in all fields of endeavor in the national service should be given consideration."

AN ALCOHOLIC AMBUSH

'Scotch on the Seeds' Traps Colonel

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP)—Out on the town for three nights, a hard-drinking parrot named the Colonel was back home today dead drunk and sleeping it off.

What happened was this: The Colonel, a two-year-old green Amazon parrot, escaped from the Unicorn Inn Sunday night.

The following morning his owner, Maj. John Scott spotted the Colonel at the top of a tall tree whistling his favorite tune, Colonel Bogey.

Maj. Scott manages the Unicorn Inn.

Unsuccessfully, the pub-

keeper tried to coax the Colonel out of the tree.

The following day Maj. Scott tried again.

The Colonel wouldn't be tempted by kind words.

Finally, the major played his trump.

Soaking a pot full of sunflower seed in scotch whisky, he placed it at the foot of the tree.

The Colonel couldn't resist. Late Wednesday the Colonel came down and fell into the alcoholic ambush.

He consumed the charged sunflower seed and drunkenly staggered around the foot of the tree.

Capture was easy. "A double scotch is too stiff for him," said Scott in an interview, "but we had to make sure of his recapture."

"The Colonel now is sleeping it off. He's still pickled, but otherwise he's fine."

People and Things

(Times News Services)

NAIROBI, Kenya—Government loans and grants are for developing businesses, not for buying wives, African businessmen were told today.

Fred Okuma, general secretary of the Kenya African Chamber of Commerce, circulated a letter to all members declaring:

"You are undermining our efforts by not using this money to develop your businesses. That's what the money has been loaned to you for — and not just for buying more wives."

One African businessman retorted that wives were an investment, particularly if they produce girl children who would later bring in the money suitors pay for brides.

SEATTLE — One of the girls shows at the Seattle world's fair, Girls of Galaxy, was closed Wednesday after the city board of theatre supervisors complained about it.

The board objected to a performer beckoning through a large window to passersby.

"The girl promenaded out there in the window," said John Feluso, chairman of the board, "strutting and beckoning to come like a hawk."

He said the show had been changed from the version the board approved, and bare-breasted girls "promenaded out to the edge of the stage. When they moved around the stage, it was something."

LONDON — The British Broadcasting Corporation has announced a new directive to disc jockeys limiting the operations of song pluggers.

From next Monday, disc jockeys in radio programs will spin platters under personal contracts that limit their choice of phonograph records.

A song plugger is someone with a commercial interest in records who tries to induce the jockeys to play his tunes.

From now on producers will scan the thousands of daily requests, consult a former viola player and then suggest to the jockeys what requests should be played.

The ex-violinist is Anna Instone, 45, once a pupil of the Royal Academy of Music, now head of the BBC gramophone department.

"I'm sure the disc jockeys will prefer the new policy because they will not be so pestered by song pluggers," she said.

In 1959, Labor MPs demanded an inquiry into alleged undercover deals between disc jockeys, record companies and music publishers. The jockeys angrily denied the allegations.

The BBC is government supported. It carries no paid advertisements.

LONDON — Prince Philip will fly his son, 13-year-old Prince Charles, to Gordonstoun, his new prep school in Scotland, next Tuesday.

Philip is an alumnus of Gordonstoun, the "make-a-man-of-you" school on the windswept shores of Moray Firth in northeast Scotland.

At Gordonstoun the heir to the throne may be caned if he misbehaves, Headmaster Robert Chew, 54, said recently.

Charles was at Cheam, a school in Berkshire, until an emergency appendicitis operation interrupted his last term.

Boys at Gordonstoun live a rugged, spartan life. The young prince will share a dormitory with 11 other boys, and eat his "simple but wholesome" meals in a large dining room.

With him at Gordonstoun will be sons of some of the wealthiest and oldest families in Britain, as well as sons of fishermen and farmers.

Snobbish attitudes and titles are banned and the prince will be known simply as Charles.

CLEVELAND — Herbert Mager has sold his gasoline station, which grossed $480,000 yearly, to become a high school teacher.

The 41-year-old Mager and his wife, Daisy, a free lance commercial artist, attended Western Reserve University last summer. She also is giving up her art career to become a teacher.

"We are going back to school in June but will keep right on going around the calendar for 2½ years so we can get our degrees," Mager said Wednesday.

After he got out of the navy at the end of the Second World War Mager said his ambition was to be a millionaire. "But a few years ago my ideas changed. There is more to the world than making money, I thought, and that is all I've done. It was ridiculous."

Ceylon Takeover

COLOMBO (Reuters)—Ceylon's state-owned petroleum corporation today served notice that it will take over at midnight tonight 108 filling stations within a 60-mile radius of Colombo owned by British and American oil companies.

The date for the unveiling of a sanctuary sign at Thetis Park has been changed from April 28 to May 5.

The sign, constructed by the Thetis Park Sanctuary Association and the Victoria Horticultural Society, will be dedicated by Mayor R. B. Wilson.

BLACK ARMBANDS FOR MOTHER'S DAY

TORONTO (CP)—Mother's Day this year will be a day of "mourning and lamentation" and members of the Voice of Women will wear black armbands to protest the resumption of nuclear testing, Mrs. Helen Tucker, association president, said Wednesday.

She said the Voice of Women initially has ordered 5,000 of the armbands bearing the international distress signal SOS—Save Our Souls—to be made up.

In other speeches at the conference, Canada, Ethiopia and the United Arab Republic expressed regret at the U.S. test and Brazil registered its disapproval of the policies of both nuclear powers.

Britain and Italy said the U.S. move was made necessary by Russian tests last fall.

MUST CONTINUE WORK

Gen. E. L. M. Burns said the Canadian government regrets the resumption of tests, but added:

"Despite the failure to reach a test ban agreement, we must persist in our work. There were many possibilities for compromise not yet fully explored by the test ban subcommittee which he hoped would continue its work."

The conference as a whole must redouble its efforts to work out a general disarmament treaty, which is its primary task.

"All nations hope for some progress by June 1," he said.

"The conference must not prevent its failure to reach an adequate solution to a test ban prevent it from seeking a solution to a general and complete disarmament program."

A Western source described the Russian delegate's address as a "cascade of venom."

PRE-SERVICE TRIP

Family of 7 'Deadheads' To Seattle

Five boys—all eyes for the fair of the future—were among some 50 people who unofficially christened B.C. Coast Steamships' summer service to Seattle today.

The Century 21-bound family of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Myrfield, Port Alberni, left in Princess Marguerite at 10 a.m., a "deadhead" trip to the world fair city from which the CPR's summer steamship starts Friday at 8 a.m.

The boys were Neil, five; Lyle, seven; Allen, nine; Richard, 11; and David, 16, who trooped aboard the ferry in their go-to-meeting best, then politely and quietly waited for the bags to be stowed and ship to cast off.

They return Saturday with a once-in-a-lifetime climax for their Easter holiday before school again Monday.

It was the only 10 a.m. sailing of the season. Regular service will see the ferry laying over here from noon to 5 p.m., leaving for Seattle until the next morning.

Capt. Oliver Williams of the service, said he looks forward to handling 300,000 passengers to the end of the season Sept. 30. This would be about 100,000 more people than the ship carried last year.

REDS

Zorin said the American test meant Russia would have to take action to strengthen its own defences against an American policy guided by a military psychosis. The U.S. move flew in the face of world opinion, which demanded an end to competition in nuclear arms.

Zorin said "the United States wants to implant the idea that war is inevitable."

British PM To Address U.S. Newsmen

NEW YORK (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan delivers a major policy speech here tonight, concluding the first full day of his eight-day North American visit prior to wide-ranging talks with President Kennedy in Washington this weekend.

The Prime Minister was to address the men who control and direct United States newspapers at the annual dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, a function addressed a year ago by President Kennedy.

Macmillan plunged into foreign policy talks earlier today with U-Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations.

AT LAKEHEAD

'Non-Political' Visit by Dief

PORT WILLIAM (CP)—The serious business of election campaigning starts today in earnest for Prime Minister Diefenbaker after a visit here, billed as non-political, to open a sportsmen's show.

He was to fly to his home province of Saskatchewan for a Progressive Conservative rally at Moose Jaw tonight. On the way, a luncheon stop was scheduled at Winnipeg for a meeting with Premier Duff Roblin and party colleagues.

Wednesday's visit here, though strictly non-partisan, provided enough opportunities to be seen and heard, to shake hands and pat children's heads, to gladden the heart of any politician.

The prime minister, accompanied by Mrs. Diefenbaker, was given two civic receptions by the twin cities of Port William and Port Arthur. He visited crippled children and an old peoples' home, and twice saw the sportsmen's show which is sponsored by fellow Kiwanis club members.

GETS PAINTING

He was presented with an oil painting of pioneer Port William, a golden key to Port Arthur, and a fly rod and reel.

His closest approach to politics all day was an involuntary one—an unidentified picketer outside the show carrying a sign: "angrier John don't waste your bait—no suckers here."

Liberal Hubert Badan, seeking re-election in Port William constituency, greeted him warmly at the airport. Douglas Fisher, seeking re-election as a New Democrat in Port Arthur, sat behind the prime minister's special box at Wednesday night's sportsmen's show along with one of the Conservative candidates.

At one point in the day Mr. Diefenbaker, a Kiwanian, said the Kiwanis clubs here justified his departure "from the ordinary rules" governing election campaign activities.

One of the club's projects is a treatment school for 24 crippled and retarded children. The prime minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker visited it.

CAMPAIGN STARTS

Today brings an abrupt switch to all-out campaigning.

The noon stop at Winnipeg by Mr. Diefenbaker's special a-liner, chartered for the campaign, was a last-minute change in schedule.

He was to meet Manitoba's Progressive Conservative Premier Duff Roblin, members of the provincial cabinet and Conservative legislature members, and some of the Conservative candidates in Winnipeg area constituencies. In the 1958 election Conservatives swept all 14 Manitoba ridings.

Then he continues west for the Moose Jaw rally of candidates in southern Saskatchewan constituencies. His DC-6B aircraft was to land at Regina, with the prime minister's party going the rest of the way by car because the Moose Jaw airfield can't handle the big four-engine plane.

He will return to Ottawa Friday and Saturday the prime minister will be in his own constituency of Prince Albert, where his nomination meeting is scheduled Saturday night.

The Reluctant Decision

BY ANY NORMAL JUDGMENT, Mr. Kennedy's decision to proceed with further nuclear tests is a part of the madness that afflicts the world today. The madness is not a phenomenon confined to East or West; it is inherent in the seemingly irresistible drive of mankind to find greater safety in more and more dangerous pursuits.

We are assured that in conducting the current series of nuclear tests the radiation to which the earth will be subjected will be negligible—only one per cent of the radiation which we receive from normal sources. But even this is an addition to a lethal threat to man's health and existence. And the tests themselves will doubtless lead to more powerful and effective weapons which in themselves carry their threat of annihilation.

That is the logical background—the thinking, probably, of many people. But what of the immediate dilemma of President Kennedy and the United States? Did Mr. Kennedy indeed have an alternative to resuming nuclear tests?

The defence of the West, led by the United States, is based on the nuclear deterrent. This is the theory that no enemy will strike against the West with nuclear weapons if this is sure to bring a nuclear attack in retaliation. On this precarious balance nuclear war may be avoided since no potential aggressor will wish to gamble his existence on such slim odds of survival.

Obviously, for such a deterrent policy, it is necessary to have nuclear weapons that are effective. They must be of adequate power and capable of penetrating the enemy's defences.

The United States has nuclear weapons of sufficient power and the ability to deliver them. But is there a defence against them?

That is the question which faced Mr. Kennedy. It is suspected that in its last series of tests Russia may have developed an anti-missile missile which could effectively prevent United States retaliatory missiles from reaching their targets.

If this is so, then the deterrent would no longer exist. Russia could launch an attack on the West secure in the knowledge that an effective counter-attack could not be made. Russia without warning broke the lengthy test moratorium last year with a series of explosions that shocked the world. The United States, which had held a lead in nuclear proficiency, may now have lost it or a substantial part of it. Can the West afford to leave its defence in this doubtful state—the world being what it is?

Mr. Kennedy has decided that it cannot. But rather than precipitate another round of competitive nuclear tests between East and West he offered to call off his projected tests if Russia would agree to the international inspection that would make a nuclear weapons ban effective. Russia refuses this safeguard, but Mr. Kennedy goes farther and says that even during his test series, if Russia agrees to supervision, he will call off the dog.

His purpose in resuming tests is not to strive for a bigger bomb. The tests will be in the medium range. But there is an imperative need to put to the proof of actual performance the work that has been done on devices to penetrate flights of decoy missiles and neutralize enemy missiles with nuclear warheads, and perhaps to devise a missile that cannot itself be neutralized.

The present tests, then, are to ensure the effectiveness of the West's deterrent principle and thus decrease the likelihood of war.

That is a paradox typical of our era. In the absence of an effective disarmament agreement between the great powers can such defences be neglected?

It is argued that the same reasoning applies to Russia, and Mr. Khrushchev had already warned that he would resume nuclear tests if the United States did.

It is dangerous to have nuclear weapons. But it is perhaps more dangerous not to have them unless disarmament is bilateral. Mr. Kennedy has made an honest decision. He has accepted a terrible responsibility in order to meet a terrible threat. In a world in which strength apparently is the criterion of national survival, he has chosen—even though reluctantly—to be strong.

Opportunity: Grasped or Fumbled?

CONCERN OF THE CADBORO Bay Ratepayers' Association and various conservation groups to preserve the Mystic Springs ravine should be shared by Saanich municipal officials.

The wooded valley runs in a northerly direction from Cedar Hill Cross Road along the edge of what will ultimately be the Haro Road extension, then curves towards Cadboro Bay. The large trees, the profusion of sword ferns, trilliums and other native plants, the trickling spring-fed stream, all combine to make this natural depression an asset of great value as a park. Because of its steep sides it is unsuitable for building, while to strip it of its tree growth would reduce it to an unsightly gully open to erosion. But as it is it provides a site for pedestrian trails in natural parklike surroundings which many a city would see as a priceless asset.

Here is property that could be destroyed by tree cutting—and at one point this has already commenced. But safeguarded for public park use it would be a unique feature of increasing value through the years as the area inevitably builds up. It would provide a fine eastern buffer for the college campus adjoining, and save for enjoyment a section of land which through misuse could become a sorry liability.

A visit to the site makes obvious its wonderful possibilities. Saanich officials would do well by themselves and the public to acquaint themselves with this excellent opportunity.

O Tempora!

WHEN THE LOS ANGELES baseball club lost its opening game in the club's new and magnificent ball park, the writers had little opportunity to spend lavish adjectives on the play. Instead the newspapermen found a medium for their $5 words in descriptions of the park itself.

This, by their account, is a palatial structure, redolent of luxury in its appointments and capable of seating 52,000 spectators in a degree of comfort probably unknown in any other baseball park.

The figures and description sound vaguely and historically familiar. In an ancient land in an early time a wealthy society constructed, or had constructed, a stadium of sorts that sat about 50,000 spectators who could gaze at the pros playing a red-blooded game which might have been called "git or git got." The appointments were ornate for those who wore the purple.

The remnants of that stadium still stand. On the former playing surface are the broken foundations of a house which a descendant of earlier spectators had built within its confines, assuming that the walls would act as fortifications. A more vigorous, participating group of red-blooded athletes moved on the stadium, battered it and destroyed all but the foundations of the house within.

They called it the colosseum, whose spectators eventually "got got."

A Message in Malt

THE GLOBE AND MAIL, presumably as an item of general interest, has published a graph showing the consumption per capita of beer in several countries.

In a year, according to the graph, Belgians consume an average of about 27 gallons apiece. That is roughly twice as much as the 13.1 gallons per head shown for Canada, which has a slightly higher per capita consumption than the United States.

Australia, West Germany and New Zealand run fairly close to Belgium, their intake being about 23 gallons per gullet per year, and after them come the United Kingdom with about 18 and Denmark and Austria with something over 15 gallons.

What this proves is presumably up to the individual's own diagnosis. But there are significant omissions in the beer-drinking chart. Neither France nor Italy, where substantial amounts of alcohol are consumed, is included, no doubt because beer drinking there is negligible.

And that may provide an interesting moral: You can cut down on beer drinking if your wine is good.

Nixon: The Presidency May Yet Be His

By LORD ALTRINCHAM
from Los Angeles

I visited Richard M. Nixon at the comfortable suburban bungalow from which he will very soon be moving into a new home in near-by Beverly Hills. He does not readily give interviews to journalists, preferring to meet the press collectively, on public occasions: so I was lucky to see him.

At the bar opposite the fireplace in his sitting room he poured me a glass of Bourbon on the rocks drawing my attention to the brand (a Tennessee Bourbon, not the more usual Kentucky). As we talked I felt a dog sniffing at my ankles and, sure enough, it was Checkers—the most famous political dog since Franklin D. Roosevelt's Fala—eleven years old and still going strong.

Higher Pay

Mr. Nixon gave me a copy of his book, "Six Crises," of which 60,000 copies had been sold before the official publication date. "Life," he said, had paid him more for the serial rights than he had received in four years as Vice-President of the United States.

In the book he accuses President Kennedy of playing a dirty trick during the election, by calling for action against Cuba which he had been confidentially told the Eisenhower Administration was itself preparing to take. For security reasons he (Nixon) had no choice but to denounce Kennedy's suggestion at the time.

In spite of denials from the White House and from Mr. Allan Dulles, ex-Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Mr. Nixon is satisfied that his version is correct, though he "would not call the President of the United States a liar."

Does he feel, in retrospect, that the policy was sound? Yes indeed—only the implementation was faulty. Suez was different: in that affair there were "economic motives" whereas in regard to Cuba the United States was concerned only to uphold the cause of freedom against communism.

When I asked him about the gubernatorial election in California in which he is likely to be the official Republican candidate, he seemed at once to lose animation. His answers were prompt—he never hesitates for a word—but I had the feeling that they were somewhat mechanical. It must be difficult for a man who has had the greatest office on earth within his grasp to adjust himself to a relatively parochial contest.

He will offer the people of his home State more vigorous and decisive leadership than the present Democratic Governor, Edmund G. Brown, has been giving them. Pat Brown is a "very pleasant fellow," but prone to vacillation. Nixon cites the Chessman case, in which Brown succeeded in antagonising both the supporters and the opponents of capital punishment.

A Few Sharks

Would "socialized medicine" be an issue in the gubernatorial campaign? Mr. Nixon replied that this would depend upon what happened in Washington, but he did not expect it to be an issue.

He was, however, strongly opposed to any interference with the doctors' freedom, though he admitted that there were a few sharks in the medical profession. The relationship between doctor and patient was so personal that it should not be subjected to bureaucratic control.

When I questioned him about the length of American elections, he was quick to agree that they are too drawn out. His country, he felt, could learn from ours in this respect. The 1960 Presidential campaign had been an unprecedented ordeal. "But for the fact that Kennedy and I were both relatively young and healthy, we could never have gone through with it."

He would like the national party conventions to be held in September, rather than in July, though this would penalize the dark-horse candidate, such as Wendell Willkie, who has not built up an organization in advance.

From Scratch

Mr. Nixon has charm—but charm is not his most endearing quality. He started more or less from scratch and had to struggle to create the Nixon "image" which helped him to emerge from obscurity. But the image is not the whole man. He is intelligent, progressive, and realistic. His affections are simple and genuine. Behind the smart political manner I would judge that he is shy, even melancholy.

Perhaps he is in the wrong party. Though the differences between Republicans and Democrats are much exaggerated, the Democratic Party is the party of the underdog; and Mr. Nixon conceals (none too effectively) an underdog mentality. Social resentment smoulders within him.

If he fails to win the governorship of California, he will be out of the running for the Presidency in 1964 or at any future date. But it would be a tragedy if such an outstandingly able and basically admirable man were to be eliminated from national politics. The solution might be for him to serve as Secretary of State in the next Republican Administration. But he is a fighter, and the Presidency may yet be his. If so, he will surprise and delight his enemies, and appeal some of his friends.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Save Our Own

Congratulations to Mrs. Hilda Beasly for her April 16 article in which she urges the builders and buyers of new homes in this area to consider well before getting rid of the native trees and plants.

Many of the specimens thoughtlessly bulldozed away would rouse the envy and admiration of every visitor if they were growing somewhere like Kew gardens or in one of the European capitals, where the cultivation of such as our native dogwood and arbutus would tax the skill of their best gardeners. Most newcomers to the city of Victoria and apparently even many of our civic leaders do not seem to realize that a great many of our native plants have been introduced to some other parts of the temperate zone, but only here, in a limited area of this Pacific Northwest, are they found growing wild under the conditions that produce the best specimens.

'Thanks for Nuthin'

May I, through the medium of your paper, give appropriate thanks to the Sacred cabinet for the reduction in my light bill. In lingua vulgaris, "thank you for nuthin'."

When it was announced that the SC government had taken over the B.C. Electric several thoughts entered my head.

First was that the "take over" was long overdue. Some Liberal MLA suggested that some time ago and the CCF advocated it consistently for years. Second was that electric light and power bills would be reduced by very considerable amounts. Third was that the move was made for the benefit of B.C. as a whole.

Now I realize that I was rather naive in my thinking.

While agreeing with the expropriation of the company, I was astounded at the manner in which it was done and at the blundering and inefficiency of the cabinet. Surely the application of a little common sense and an elementary knowledge of the law would have avoided the difficulties that arose.

As to the reduction in light and power bills, on previous occasions, when a governing body took over a similar company, rates were cut considerably but not in British Columbia. Here is another instance where the consumer was, left, "holding the bag."

It has now come to light why this party which claims to be the defender of private enterprise acted as it did. Apparently the SC cabinet had its eye on the surplus earnings of the B.C. Electric in order to assist in financing Mr. Bennett's grandiose Peace River development and not for the benefit of the people of the province.

There seems to be a belief among the SC fanatics that Bennett will go down in history if the Peace River scheme is successful as an empire builder. I greatly fear he has not the ability or vision of Cecil Rhodes.

Now, like thousands of others, I am disillusioned, and what hurts most is that I have been "taken in" by a party of politicians whose methods are far from ethical.

Royal Criticism

In this age of equality and communism it has become customary to poke fun at people in high places.

There seems to be a sort of witch-hunt going on in the Old Country. Press reports reveal that they are trying to give the Royal Family a rough time. For example, when the Crown estimates came up for passing by the House of Commons recently, some of the socialists' soul-searchers looked at Kensington Palace and objected to paying for Princess Margaret's plumbing, so her sister picked up the tab. The heir to the Throne, who will one day be Head of the Church of England, is moving school to Gordonstoun where, in keeping of course, a C of E chaplain has recently been appointed. This caused the school's governor, Dr. Evan Barrow, 83, to talk of resigning in protest because he wants a Presbyterian incumbent.

Prince Philip is spat at by The Express for speaking his mind and he is pounced on for playing polo on Sundays, while at the same time his spouse is criticized for attending meetings of hounds on weekdays. One latest addition to the Family is flayed for coming to work in Fleet Street or castigated for doing nothing if he cools his heels at home.

Angry young men of the Press, led by that super sniper Lord Altrincham, put up their sales with pot-shots at their permanent target which they know cannot hit back. "Uneasy lies the head."

Let Laos Segashuate

By JOSEPH ALSOP
From Vientiane, Laos

UNLESS the American policy in unhappy little Laos is soon reviewed, the next state is easy to foresee. Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and the other Laotian anti-Communist leaders are going to be strangled, by the existing cut-off of American financial aid, or by an additional cut-off of military aid, or by both methods combined. The political corpse of Laotian anti-communism, garrotted "for its own good," of course, will then be added to a new coalition government in which the local Communists will be the strongest element. And this coalition will then be relied upon to enforce the strict neutrality which is the avowed American aim for Laos.

These proceedings will be excused on the ground that an all-party government pledged to Laotian neutrality was the best bet for Laos, when Gen. Phoumi first refused to enter such a government last summer.

Missed a Bet

It may well be true that Phoumi then missed a good bet. But the question now is not what would have been the best bet last summer. The question now is what is the best bet today; and this question must not be obscured by the remarkably intemperate feelings aroused in some U.S. quarters by Gen. Phoumi's obstinate refusal to do the bidding of the Americans who pay the bills.

Without regard to personalities, then, what are the current factors in this obscure but dangerous situation?

In the first place, the odds on a neutral, coalition-governed Laos were perhaps reasonable last summer. But the odds today are astronomically against anything remotely resembling Laotian neutrality, if a coalition government is now created by forcible prior strangulation of the anti-Communists.

This difficulty is pooh-poohed, on the ground that the Soviet negotiators at Geneva gave the strictest pledges of Laotian neutrality to Governor Averell Harriman.

But suppose the local Communists or the Communist North Vietnamese or the Chinese Communists are not prepared to honor these Soviet pledges. Or just suppose—perish the thought!—that it proves to be unwise to place our sole reliance on Soviet good faith? What happens then?

The answer is too simple. The U.S. will then be desperately but fruitlessly longing for the considerable assets in Laos which will be automatically flushed down the drain by a coalition created by main force.

Symbol of Assets

As a symbol of these assets, consider Col. Vang Phao, the Meo officer of the Royal Laotian army whose regional command embraces the most important territory now held by the Communists.

In the last year, he has successfully created scores of guerrilla companies composed of his Meo fellow tribesmen. And in the key area of Laos, the Meo guerrillas are now giving the Communists some of their own medicine, reducing them, in fact, to the position of the French in the Indochinese war.

In other words, the Communists now hold only the roads and the strongpoints in this area, and in some parts of the area not this much.

The Meo guerrillas can lay down and have laid down mortar fire on the main Communist supply base, Xieng Khouang, with its airfield where the Soviet transports land. They have already interdicted the key road forward from Xieng Khouang to Vang Vieng, so that all supplies for this main forward base threatening Vientiane are now carried by air.

They are tested by a year in combat. They have far greater potentialities in Laos. Best of all, the Meo guerrilla movement can be carried into the enemy's home grounds, the Meo-Black Thai area in the mountains of North Vietnam.

Add that another exceedingly promising guerrilla movement is underway in southern Laos. Add that the Americans who train the Royal Laotian army and go into combat with the army units are unanimous that just one year of serious training has already worked wonders with this force of 60,000 men. Add that these same Americans believe that far more can be accomplished.

Down the Drain

It can be seen that our assets in Laos are not to be lightly flushed down the drain. And this is another great change in the equation, for all these assets either have been created or have gained their present value in the last year.

But if these changes in the equation demand a change in the U.S. policy, what should it be? Somewhere in "Uncle Remus" there is a wonderful word, "segashuate," meaning to allow things to simmer along or to develop naturally without undue interference.

The thing to do would seem to be to let Laos segashuate, continuing to work for a reasonable coalition but holding no further Mad Hatter's tea parties to enforce an unequal coalition.

And if anyone asks, "But what if the North Vietnamese Communists then invade Laos in great force?" the answer is: "Have you heard about the irrevocable commitment the U.S. has now made in South Vietnam?"

... REPORTING

OTTAWA—Before we get too engrossed with hustings battles and election issues, a tip of the hat is due the last session of the late Parliament.

For 65 days 262 men and women in the Commons and 91 in the Senate devoted themselves more or less assiduously to legislating and debating for the good and for the good government of the country.

That their sojourn here was one of the windier periods in recent political history was inevitable; it was a pre-election Parliament. Their legislative achievements were meager for this reason, and also because Prime Minister Diefenbaker cut the session short to appeal to the people on the point that the Opposition was obstructing and frustrating his legislative program. But still they passed some important acts and aired many matters that required airing.

From a national point of view the Disclosures Act is the most important statute put on the books this year. It is important for what it will disclose of the extent, nature and methods of foreign ownership and control of Canadian industry, and more important for the remedial action it will make possible.

But from the people's point of view the most important legislation was that which increased old age pensions and similar welfare benefits by $10 a month. Those who receive will have grateful huzzas for the government; those who pay the increases in their taxes will have less reason to join in.

Other noteworthy legislation included assistance payments to western farmers and "business legislation" in the fields of export credits and government-backed loans. But legislation that had been promised, like restrictions on Canadian editions of U.S. magazines, Senate "reform" and a contributory social security, was left over for the next Parliament, along with Finance Minister Fleming's budget proposals.

The debates on economic, trade, defence and foreign policies were most important in that they exposed the government's serious weakness on such issues as slow economic growth, the European Common Market, nuclear arms, and trade with Cuba in context with Canadian-American relations.

It is in such debates that the icing of fancy legislative programs is scraped aside to disclose the kind of government the country is getting. Much of the 25 days the Opposition spent debating supplementary estimates was devoted to probing the government's sins and shortcomings — debates in which the Opposition was at its best.

Where the government was best, aside from legislation, was in executive policy decisions such as the new immigration regulations that take the Jim Crowism out of our immigration laws, the 12 cents a pound butter subsidy, the proposal for long distance high voltage power transmission, and bilingual government cheques.

Some statutes were increased: Liberal Leader Pearson, New Democrat House Leader Bert Herridge, Liberal MP Judy LaMarsh, Foreign Minister Green, Finance Minister Fleming and in the long run, I think, new Liberal Hazen Argue.

Now this Parliament has run its course. And the pity of it is that, public popularity being a fickle thing, some good MPs probably will not be back.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

This Is Discrimination

LONDON — While colored immigrants are pouring in at such a rate (to get in before the Immigration Bill became law) that unemployment offices in the industrial towns of the North are complaining that they can't cope with the influx, a fresh cry of color discrimination has gone up.

And it's the insurance companies this time that are accused of discriminating against the newcomers.

Letters, not from colored people themselves but from indignant locals, are appearing in the papers about the high rates charged West Indians for motor insurance and the refusal in some cases of insurance companies to handle such business.

And what is the reply of the insurance people to this accusation?

Certainly it's discrimination, they say, but it has nothing to do with color. It is based on their experience of claims from West Indians over the years, which puts them in the same category as other groups who are known bad risks.

And who are these others who are so unreliable as regards motor cars that they are likely to have to pay higher premiums or even have difficulty in getting some kinds of policy at all?

Well, we journalists are in there. Plus actors and actresses, jockeys, bookmakers and scrap merchants. Why scrap merchants, I wonder? Surely it couldn't be that when at the wheel of a car they have a subconscious urge to improve business.

HOME GARDEN

Small Cold Frame Works Well

The home gardener without facilities for starting seeds indoors such as a greenhouse or sunporch can still be a few weeks ahead of the "shoe-box" cold-frame.

I call it a shoe-box frame because its construction is nothing more than a base of six-inch or eight-inch ship-lap, oblong in shape, with a cover of plastic film on a frame which fits over like the lid of a shoe-box.

No great size is needed for starting seeds since they are transplanted to more spacious quarters as soon as they are large enough to handle. Possibly two feet by three feet would be suitable for the average garden.

The lid is made from one-inch boards either three or four inches wide, and these are nailed together on edge, the same as the sides of the shoe-box lid.

Plastic film of any kind will do, storm window sets for instance, a three-mil or four-mil plastic is stronger, but not worth purchasing unless it is carefully stored out of sunlight when not in use.

Sometimes the tight plastic will end to pull in the sides of the lid and if this seems likely to happen a spacer should be used at the centre to keep the proper width. Having the frame boards on edge gives stronger construction without which light can pass.

A few cleats, or strips of wood, nailed around the outside of the base at a distance of two inches below the upper edge, provide a ledge on which the cover rests so that the corners of the base do not poke through the plastic.

Prepare a good seed bed in a sheltered warm corner and place the frame on top. Sow seeds of flowers, and of those vegetables which can be transplanted such as sweet corn, lettuce, peppers, eggplant, and all the squash family, but transplant early before the true leaves form. The seedlings will need shade from laths or sacking 18 inches above soil level.

When the frame is not in use, it may be taken apart and stored under shelter (basement or garage) until again needed. With this treatment, it will last in good condition for years, and prove a source of earlier flowers and vegetables.

Armor-Piercing Shells New Use for Uranium

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian defence scientists are involved in a project to develop uranium in its natural state as a means of increasing the armor-piercing power of artillery shells and other ammunition, it was reported Wednesday.

Teacher Honored
VANCOUVER (CP)—Miss Elsie Roy, primary supervisor for Vancouver schools for 25 years, has won the Fergusson Memorial Award for outstanding service to the B.C. teaching profession. Miss Roy, who retired last year, received the award at the convention of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

The possibility that uranium may evolve as an important metal in non-nuclear military use was disclosed in an interview by Dr. John Convey, director of the federal mines branch.

He declined to elaborate beyond mentioning that the United States defence scientists had found uranium a more effective and more readily available substitute for tungsten-carbide in production of shell cores.

Describing this as "very urgent research for the armed services," he said Canada is "aware and involved" in this field.

2 Tankers Set Ablaze In North Sea Collision

CROMER, England (AP)—Two Greek-owned tankers caught fire today after a collision in the North Sea 100 miles northeast of here.

Crew members of the 17,791-ton Olympic Thunder, one of Aristotle Onassis' fleet, took to lifeboats but stood by their blazing ship in the hope that it could be reboarded when the flames died down.

The second tanker, the 23,232-ton Klavos, reported by radio that its fire was extinguished by the crew after a 45-minute battle.

No casualties were reported. Natural gas supplied about 10 per cent of Canada's energy requirements in 1961, and is forecast to reach 25 per cent by 1980.

U.K., France Arms Aid Widens Rift in Africa

LONDON (CP)—South Africa's two leading Negro politicians exiled in Britain say a rift between NATO countries and the independent African states is widening because of military collaboration by Britain and France with Premier Verwoerd's regime.

Oliver Tambo and Robert Resha, both members of the African National Congress executive council and close to Nobel-prize-winner Albert Lutuli, claim that with supplies from Europe South Africa has doubled its defence budget to £60,000,000 in the last two years.

Resha is leaving for a six-week tour of African countries to seek support for a total economic boycott of the former Commonwealth country. A resolution on these lines will be presented to the United Nations General Assembly in September.

WILL SUPPORT BOYCOTT

Resha expects all four Commonwealth countries in Africa will announce formal adherence to the boycott and think they may be joined by other Commonwealth countries in Asia.

"Britain is in grave danger of finding herself out of step with the majority of the Commonwealth," he says.

"It is impossible to discover precisely what pact or understanding has been agreed between Britain and the South African government.

"But we have the official statement of Mr. Fouché, the defence minister in Pretoria, that he plans to acquire from British factories more armored cars and other police and military equipment as well as Mark II Victor bombers.

"With the full co-operation of Imperial Chemical Industries, new factories are turning out high explosive and ammunition."

Tories Back MRA Man

ABERDEEN, Scotland (Reuters)—A district Conservative party organization Wednesday night gave a decisive vote of confidence to its member of Parliament, who had been under fire for his association with the Moral Re-Armament movement.

An iron ore development scheduled to start at Kirkland Lake, Ont., in 1962, is estimated to cost $30,000,000.

WHAT GOES ON UP IN THE VILLAGE OF NEWBY EAST

—one of the remote hamlets among the beautiful fells of Cumberland, and not so far from the Scottish Border? Something strange, yet after a couple of days there I'm as far from the truth as ever. In this Year of Grace, 1962, it seems strange to write about a village of superstition and fear. "I do not mind telling you," he said, "but I am a little bit frightened about what might happen in this village. The people are divided into several camps." ## OILS

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

A prediction on the future dwelling habits of Canadians—one which is already being borne out in Victoria—was made by Hugh R. Montgomery, president of the Canadian Construction Association, in a speech to a builders' group at Port Arthur this week.

Proportionately more and more Canadians will become apartment dwellers or at least be housed in some type of multiple unit, said Mr. Montgomery.

Mr. Montgomery, who will be guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, noted that multi-family housing units now represented half of those built in urban centres, compared with less than 30 per cent only a decade ago.

Increased interest on the part of governments at all levels in urban renewal and jointly-financed housing projects, all of which involved multiple units, reinforced this trend, he said.

The move towards urbanization and the accompanying "urban sprawl" have tended to encourage more economical use of land and the avoidance of lengthy travel times in commuting to work.

Mr. Montgomery said the current trend toward apartments and other types of multiple units could be counteracted by the big surge in family formations expected after 1965.

A year-long, $2 million modernization of lumber production facilities at the Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. Fraser Mills building materials division is to be started immediately.

The project will include modifications at the Bridge Lumber division in Richmond. Purpose of the project is to permit greater log utilization through closer integration of the two mills and the small log sawmill at Elk Falls.

Home Oil Company's net profit for the first quarter of 1962 of $714,000 was almost double the net for the whole year of 1961.

Net income was $4,765,389 or $1.28 per class A share compared with 1961's $2,830,792 or 88 cents a share.

During the year the company's foothills pipeline division was placed in service at a completed cost estimated at $82,250,000 and total cost of all completed facilities was shown as $150,570,934.

Heavy Taxes Hit Economy

TORONTO (CP) — The heavy load of taxation is putting a damper on the Canadian economy, E. G. Burton, chairman and president of Simpsons Ltd., said at the company's annual meeting Wednesday.

"Counting all forms of taxation and exemptions," Mr. Burton said, "there is no question that the burden in Canada for technical groups is far more onerous than elsewhere on this continent."

"It is little wonder, therefore, that we continue to lose thousands of our best-trained men and women to the United States and elsewhere and are left with more and more untrained employables to look after."

He said incentive to remain should be provided "by reducing our present tax loads so that they are definitely more favorable than elsewhere on this continent."

Recovery from the recent recession had been slow and, while business is showing some improvement, "the economy is less buoyant than nearly everyone thought it would be."

"It seems to me there is generally a feeling of frustration and discouragement in Canada, particularly at management and supervisory levels, that you do not find elsewhere to the same extent. I believe the heavy load of Canadian taxation is at the root of the problem."

B.C. Log Production Skids

AIRLINES DISRUPTED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. atomic tests are likely to interfere with certain communication circuits and force cancellation of some airline flights over the Pacific.

Planes will be unable to transmit vital information on the affected radio frequencies, making it unsafe for them to fly.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Log production dropped about 2,000,000 board feet in British Columbia in 1961.

W. L. Keate, chairman of the B.C. Loggers Association, told the annual meeting output last year was 6,800,000 board feet compared with 7,000,000 board feet in 1960.

The demand was strong for fir and hemlock logs, he said, but cedar continued to be a problem with prices averaging well below the cost of production.

Mr. Keate of the Port Neville Logging Company Ltd. was re-elected chairman of the association for his second term.

U.S. MAY DISPERSE MISSILES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States may sharply revise previous plans and deploy intercontinental missiles widely through Pacific islands and possibly other distant locations, informed sources said today.

Their statements came on the heels of an air force disclosure that tests are being conducted for possible missile sites in the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska and at the American naval base on Guam.

GOT A YEN FOR A GLENN?—Annette Klaer admires new Vignale "Glenn" at motor show in Geneva, Switzerland. Named for the U.S. astronaut, car uses a 1,500 cc engine.

Britain Cuts Bank Rate

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's bank rate—key to the rate of interest charged on loans—was reduced today to 4½ per cent from five—the third cut in seven weeks.

The rate was reduced to 5½ per cent from six March 8, and then to five March 22.

A Bank of England spokesman said today's reduction was based on the same general consideration as the last—a reflection of the continued strength of sterling.

One effect of the series of cuts has been to stop the flow of money from foreign investors wishing to take advantage of the high British interest rates. This has been one factor in continuing drain on U.S. gold reserves.

The last time the bank rate stood at 4½ per cent was in 1958.

UBC EXPERT HITS U.S. TARIFF PROPOSALS

Canada 'Short-Circuited'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Common Market and tariff-cutting proposals by the United States are "short-circuiting" Canada's trade agreements with other countries, Professor G. N. Perry, of the University of British Columbia, said Wednesday.

Their effect has been to strike at Canada's most-favored-nation position in the general agreement on tariffs and trade, the UBC dean of commerce said.

He told the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association Canada is left in a world "market trap," facing a "widespread impact" by lowering its own tariffs and on the other hand a severe risk by maintaining protection for industry.

"It is not very likely that we could expect to get a 'free ride' under which our tariff walls would be allowed to remain up, while the major countries were pulling theirs down," said Dr. Perry.

He said high tariffs are possible only with an adequate domestic market with a population of at least 50,000,000.

to help build up a larger internal market and stronger competitive ability on foreign markets, would include: Lower tariffs and a stable exchange rate "when the country is running at high levels of employment."

A rational monetary and fiscal policy based on efforts of federal and provincial governments to co-ordinate and readjust the "tax harness", with more tax incentives for industry;

A long-range growth program with definite population goals.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

The athletic activities of Ivy League universities (Princeton, Harvard, Yale) have never stirred the metabolism of this operator. The primary reason is that those temples of learning are more interested in producing presidents and scholars than in turning out bona fide fullbacks or pole-vaulters.

Two recent items in the hallowed New York Times, however, made a fellow's ears come to attention.

The first, dated March 31, read: "Princeton and Yale won rugby games today to enter the finals of the South's first Commonwealth Cup rugby tournament."

"Princeton beat Virginia 24-8 and Yale beat Notre Dame 8-6."

"Stu Smith of Princeton made three conversions, two penalty kicks and one try for 13 of his team's 24 points."

The second item in the Times, dated April 1, read: "Princeton captured the first Commonwealth Cup rugby tournament here today with a 6-0 victory over Yale in the final."

"Stu Smith, a graduate student in physics, turned in a top performance for Princeton."

As everyone knows Smith is not a common name like Hoernschmeyer or Kantrataks. There must be 10,000 Smiths on the continent and goodness knows how many Hoernschmeyers and Kantrataks.

But the thought persisted that Princeton's "Stu Smith" might be Victoria's "Stew" Smith. A call to J. Stewart Smith, superintendent of brokers for B.C., confirmed the suspicion.

More Medals Than Eisenhower

"That's Stew," said Stew Sr. "Drove down there last fall. He's going for his doctor's degree in nuclear physics. Won the University Medal for heading his class in physics and arts at University of B.C. last year. Before that he won the Governor-General's Medal. Been on scholarships ever since high school."

"Went well for Princeton (13 points) against Virginia, didn't he?"

"You notice he didn't score any points in the final. He wrote me that he pulled a muscle and didn't do any kicking against Yale. Yet they (Princeton) won and he was pretty pleased. So was I."

Senior had yet another tale about Junior...

"He arrived too late for the Princeton lacrosse practices but joined the team anyway. He didn't start the first game but he was sent in after Princeton was behind two goals. He scored three fast ones and Princeton won by one goal."

Stew Sr. couldn't recall the name of the losing team. But it doesn't matter. Nobody told them the innocent-looking Princeton newcomer had played the game before. Played it last year for the best team in Canada... the 1961 Mann Cup champions from Vancouver.

The East Hasn't Returned Since

Speaking of teletseksaheks (as the Indians called lacrosse before the Kennedys got to Harvard and straightened things out), there is a prolonged thesis on it in the latest Sports Illustrated.

The author, John Underwood, stickhandles deftly through the rudiments of the game. But like many Americans who consider Canada a frozen tundra populated by Eskimos and Indians, Underwood stubs his toe ignominiously when he writes: "As has been the case for 70 years, the major lacrosse powers are on the East Coast."

It is not difficult to recall a game several hundred years ago in Vancouver when John Hopkins University, the then champions of the "East Coast," played an exhibition game against a B.C. team.

The score was 9-0 or something like that. After the first period, The Johns Hopkins boys were so busy picking up their teeth and applying band-aids they hardly saw the ball. This was indoor box, of course. And the Hopkins boys play their lacrosse on an open field.

Inside or outside, there is little reason to believe that the pride of the East Coast could demolish an average B.C. team today. One shudders at the thought of a Harvard All-American trying to run past Victoria's Skip Mackay. Wrestling with a power saw would be easier. And safer.

CUFF STUFF... Local medics were skeptical when Victoria's Lynn Eves resumed training 30 days after a cartilage was removed from his right knee... But Eves kept on running and running and running.

Fortnight ago he ran the 440 for University of Oregon in 48.6 seconds—second fastest time for the distance recorded in the U.S. this year. Same night he ran the 220—around a corner—in 20.9. That's monorail clocking...

Belated congratulations to the First United pre-midget girls' basketball team... All under 12, they compiled the amazing record of 22 wins, averaged 31% of their shots...

What a difference 34 years make... Attendance at Chicago Stadium during the recent Stanley Cup playoffs was announced at 16,669... That is the actual seating figure but standees swelled the total to 26,000 which means Black Hawks' owner James Norris won't have to worry about his next few meals...

Back in 1928, however, business was so bad at the house that Paddy O'Hanlon built they couldn't even pay the interest on the mortgage...

'WHAT DO I DO NOW?'

Look of anxiety crosses face of Victoria defenceman Al Davies as he scoops up loose ball in front of Shamrocks' goalkeeper Gordie Johnston. Nanaimo's Ed McDonald (No. 8) and Shamrocks' John Hansen (No. 14)

keep close watch on play. Recovering from slow start, Shamrocks went on to down Nanaimo 10-5 in Inter-city Lacrosse League opener before 3,200 at Memorial Arena Wednesday night. —(Times Photo by Strickland.)

Lots of Zing Remains In Don Larsen's Wing

By UP INTERNATIONAL

Better switch to another detergent if you swallowed all those soap suds about big Don Larsen being all washed up.

Nothing could be further from the truth.

If you doubt it, ask Alvin Dark or any of the other members of San Francisco Giants. They claim unpredictable, 32-year-old Larsen has never looked better since that memorable October day in 1956 when he pitched the only perfect game in world series history.

Larsen, obtained in a deal with Chicago White Sox last December, already has won two games for the Giants and although he wasn't credited with Wednesday's 8-3 victory over the first-place Pirates, his relief performance was such that Dark had one word for it.

"Terrific!"

Giant starter Gaylord Perry, the winner, got into a jam in the sixth inning when the Pirates put two men on base with none out. That was when Larsen came out of the bullpen to do his stuff.

He struck out the next three batters on only 10 pitches, and went on to strike out a total of eight during the four innings he worked. Orlando Cepeda took care of the Giants' attack by driving in four runs with a double and a home run. Ed Bailey also homered off Bob Friend, who suffered his first loss after three straight victories. The defeat for the Pirates was only their second in 13 games.

17-INNING STALEMATE

Houston's battling Colts fought St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-5 standstill in a 17-inning struggle that was finally called because of curfew after a record five hours and 13 minutes. In other National League games, Cincinnati Reds handed New York Mets their 11th defeat in 12 starts, 7-1; Milwaukee beat Philadelphia, 7-2; and Chicago Cubs cuffed Los Angeles Dodgers, 9-6.

Minnesota Twins beat Baltimore Orioles, 3-1, in the American League; Los Angeles Angels defeated Cleveland Indians, 6-2; New York Yankees rallied to beat Chicago White Sox, 7-6; Boston Red Sox walked Washington Senators, 7-1; and Kansas City A's outlasted Detroit Tigers, 9-8.

Mounties Edge Past Seattle 2-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Single runs spelled the difference in the three completed Pacific Coast League games Wednesday night and they left the Salt Lake City Bees once again alone at the top of the standings.

Seattle Rainiers, who shared first place with the Bees, dropped to second after a 2-1 loss at Vancouver to the Mounties. Salt Lake squeezed San Diego 5-4 and Tacoma shaded Portland by the same margin.

Quips Flow Like Wine After Nanaimo Clubbed

Nanaimo 5, Shamrocks 10
BY ERNIE FEDORUK

It was after the game...

Tom Collett earned star-of-the-game rating and Skip Mackay was lauded for providing the steady influence on the Victoria Shamrocks' defence.

"We're on top of the league," coach Arnold Ferguson quipped in the relaxed atmosphere of Victoria's dressing room, "so perhaps it's time to quit now."

The light banter continued when someone complimented Jim McNeill for "really turning on the speed." This was in reference to a goal McNeill scored after he out-legged two Nanaimo players over half the length of the Memorial Arena floor.

McNeill, a hefty 210 pounds, insisted the two Nanaimo players "pushed me all the way down... we weren't racing."

Shamrocks' 10-5 victory over Nanaimo in the Inter-city Lacrosse League's opening game Wednesday night was taken with moderate enthusiasm and the truth of the matter is it has to be. The opener was only a "so-so" game, as far as games go, and very little was decided.

Long after the lights went out in the Arena, it was difficult to pin down the dominating feature or performer.

Mackay proved the Shamrock executive made a wise move in acquiring the Skipper from Nanaimo and Collett was a worthy all-star. Either one, or both, might be marked down as today's headline stealers but the 210-pound frame of McNeill stands in the way.

For one thing, McNeill was the game's leading point-getter with two goals and two assists.

40-GOAL MAN

More important, however, is the role that McNeill didn't play throughout the season. Most of the pre-season lacrosse talk revolved around Mackay, Don Sepka and the still elusive Don Ashbee—and how much they could mean to the Shamrocks this year.

A 40-goal scorer when he broke into senior ranks four seasons ago, McNeill didn't exactly set the fire he was expected to light in succeeding years.

Last year, plagued by various injuries, he scored but 14 goals in 16 games. Coincidentally, Victoria won only two matches of the 30 played.

Wednesday the husky product of Victoria minor ranks indicated he could be just as big a man as could Mackay or Ashbee (if and when...) or Sepka.

Some insist 210 pounds is a few too much for McNeill to carry. He doesn't.

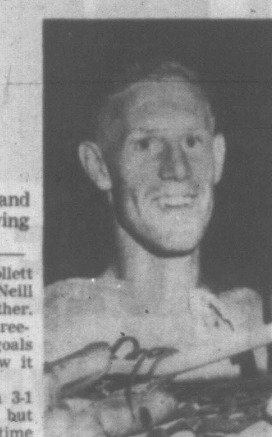

"I feel great," he says.

STRONG LINE

He hustled, as the break-away run pointed out, and carried his share of the load.

Ferguson may also be thinking that this could be a big year for McNeill. The coach has veteran Whitey Severson, a master at supplying pinpoint passes, at centre. On the other wing is sophomore Billy Gray, a rugged individual who can be expected to rush into any corner at any time in order to pick up a loose ball.

Severson added a pair of goals and Gray one. In addition, he was the star of the game.

Bumper List of Tee Prizes

Finalists in the Times Vancouver Island Open golf championships will have breathing room for most of the day but look for a small crowd at prize-giving time.

The four main events will be joined by 17 other golfers when prizes are handed out after the completion of Sunday's 36-hole championship final at the Victoria Golf Club.

The big winner will be the Times Open champion. In addition to the trophy and a $100 prize, the winner receives the distinctive champion's blazer.

The runner-up gets $50, or merchandise of equal value.

All that, and prestige, is being sought by Jasper Park Lodge professional Ron MacLeod, 32, and George Vale amateur Bill Wakeham, 21.

Winner of the handicap playoff between Jack Storrie, 42, and Rickie Kent, 16, gets the Hugh Francis Trophy and an engraved wrist watch. A suitable prize awaits the runner-up.

Cheques will be presented to medalist Dick Munn and runner-up Laurie Carroll, both professionals, and the handicap medalist's prize will go to Dr. George Bigelow.

Defeated semi-finalists Laurie Kerr, Bill McColl, Stan Evans and Jim Neilson also are due to step up for rewards.

Other prize-winners include Keith Taylor, Claude Haggie, John Merriman, Doug Aune, John Furnston, Bill Wightman, Cyril Olson, Gord Campbell, B. Fuller and B. Thompson.

Prize-winners are asked to be on hand Sunday in order to claim their rewards. Prize presentations will be made as soon as possible after the championship match (approximately 4 p.m.).

They All Feel That It Can't 'Happen to Me'

BY OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—It is typical of the automobile racing breed that Stirling Moss, lying in a British hospital, probably has more fatal faith in himself than ever today.

Moss, a balding, lantern-chinned man of 32, suffered head injuries and a fractured leg in the Easter Monday 100-mile at Goodwood. One of the world's most famous drivers, he has inhabited the antiseptic realm before.

So it is that this visit shouldn't be expected to stop him.

"Racing is his life and I don't think he would even consider giving it up," said his sister, Pat, in a tip-off interview.

Moss said something of the same just two years ago when he cracked up in the Belgian Grand Prix. That time he broke both legs.

"It's not the first time. I don't suppose it will be the last," he commented.

FATALISTIC OUTLOOK

It isn't a fatalistic outlook which, you would think, most race drivers would develop. It is an ingrained certainty that "it can't happen to me."

The long count, that is. The one from which they won't walk away.

If you've spent any time around race drivers, you know that this is their philosophy. Close your eyes and you see them again, which is the only way you can see them now.

Guys like cocky Bill Vukovich, slender Jack McGrath of the bushy eyebrows... laughing Jimmy Reece... friendly Tony Bettenhausen... burly Jimmy Bryan... blue-eyed Pat O'Connor... typical Bob

NEW YORK (AP) — Luis Arroyo, New York Yankees relief ace, will be out of action for a few days due to a strained ligament in back of his left elbow. Although X-rays proved negative, the stocky Puerto Rican was advised not to pitch for a few days.

Flyers One Win From WHL Title

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Flyers are one victory away from their third Western Hockey League playoff championship.

Flyers, playoff champions in 1953 and 1955, moved into that position Wednesday night by defeating Spokane Comets 5-3 before 3,937 fans.

The victory, Edmonton's third straight, gave them a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven WHL final series. The sixth game is scheduled here Friday night.

A second - period scoring barrage and Gilles Boisvert's excellent third-period goaltending were the highlights of Edmonton's win.

Flyers scored four straight times in the first 14 minutes of the second period, breaking a 1-1 tie and building up a margin Spokane was unable to overcome.

Spokane narrowed the deficit to 5-3 with late middle-period goals but were stopped cold by Boisvert in an all-out last period comeback effort.

Boisvert blocked 21 drives in the last 20 minutes. In the entire game he stopped 39 shots.

Tessier Gets More Awards

OTTAWA (CP) — Two more Eastern Professional Hockey League honors Tuesday were heaped on playing coach Orval Tessier of Kingston Frontenacs.

Sportswriter and sportscasters in the six EPHL cities named the 29-year-old centre the most valuable player and also gave him the sportsmanship award.

Tessier, who has had two brief flurries in the NHL with Boston and Montreal, earlier won the league's individual scoring crown and was named all-star centre.

Pearson Seeks 'Great Debate' With John D.

Times Ottawa Correspondent

CHARLOTTETOWN—Liberal Leader Lester Pearson Wednesday kicked off his election campaign by challenging Prime Minister Diefenbaker to a face-to-face nationally televised debate.

He threw out the challenge before a standing-room-only Liberal rally here, arguing that such a personal debate would be the best way to help Canadians make up their minds on the election issues.

Accusing the Progressive Conservative government of permitting economic stagnation and branding the last five years of Tory administration "the wasted years," Pearson said he wanted the voters to compare Liberal policies for the future with the "more-noise-than-leadership" record of the Conservatives.

"I believe such a comparison requires the fullest and frankest, face to face discussion before the people by the leaders of the only two parties who have any chance of forming a government after the next election," he declared.

"I believe the best way to have this face to face discussion would be through a joint debate, over radio, and television between the leader of the Conservative party, Mr. Diefenbaker, and myself as leader of the Liberal party."

"I will be available for this purpose. I hope the Prime Minister also will agree that the issues of the election should be debated in this way."

His statement was interrupted by the applause of the crowd, estimated at 1,500.

Holds No Fear of 'Diefenbaker Image'

Liberal strategy in proposing the debate appeared to be based on two main foundations:

The challenge in itself, whether accepted or not, would show that Pearson holds no fear of the "Diefenbaker image" being promoted by the Conservatives.

If accepted, the debate would mean an advantage to the Liberals, since Diefenbaker would be seeming to recognize Pearson as an equal and Pearson's qualifications for the job of prime minister.

If they were pleased with televised debate proposal, Liberals masterminding the Pearson campaign were even happier about the reaction to their leader's first day on the hustings.

Pearson had touched off his campaign in a Tory stronghold. All four of Prince Edward Island's seats in the Commons were taken by the Conservatives in 1958 and he was greeted with modest enthusiasm everywhere he went, a reaction better than that anticipated by party officials.

A crowd of about 100 party supporters met him at Charlottetown Airport. They carried banners bearing slogans like "Progress with Pearson" and "Go Mike Go."

A daughter of one of the P.E.I. Liberal candidates presented Pearson with a bouquet of red roses; Pearson chatted and shook hands with his greeters, after the best "Main-streeting" style of his chief opponent, John Diefenbaker.

Downtown, the Liberal leader was greeted even by P.E.I.'s Conservative premier, Walter Shaw, in the chamber of the Confederation Building where, in 1864, the groundwork for confederation was laid.

Lots of Hand Shakes In Folksy Tour

Pearson spent the afternoon darting by car around the P.E.I. countryside, stopping at villages, visiting hospitals, shaking hundreds of hands and making brief appeals for Liberal votes.

At one stop, in Murray River (pop. 544), more than 300 people turned out to hear him in a movie theatre.

He laid emphasis on the fact he was starting his campaign in small centres, rather than in "some great city." He was happiest, he said, in the company of "people who till the soil, fish the seas, tend the shops."

He promised help from a Liberal government to P.E.I. potato farmers and fishermen. This speech was dubbed by some observers as his "fish and chips" speech.

The audience at the evening rally stood and applauded politely when Pearson entered the auditorium behind a pipe band escort.

Throughout his 40-minute speech the audience was closely attentive, applauding such phrases as, "The Tories have had their chance... It is Canada that now needs in other chance, to make up for these wasted years."

The Liberal leader did not discuss the Liberal election platform in detail but hammered at what he called "feeble" Tory government, a government "more concerned with politicking than performance, with showmanship rather than action."

'IMPERTINENT' ANSWER TO SALARY QUERY

Synod Refuses to Increase Grant

The Anglican Synod of the Diocese of British Columbia, meeting here Wednesday, refused to increase its yearly contribution to the General Synod in Toronto.

A large majority voted against increasing the assessment after clergy and laymen complained that the General Synod declined information as to how its money is spent.

The Vancouver Island diocese voted to contribute the same amount as last year—$25,000 to the funds of the general synod and $5,000 for the Missionary Society of Canadian Churches.

Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral said, after the general synod asked the diocese to increase its contribution, certain inquiries were made.

"A request made to the general synod for information on certain salaries paid was refused on the grounds that the information was confidential," he said.

"We received what I consider to be an impertinent and irresponsible reply. These salaries are paid from the levies made on our diocese and we have a right to know what is being spent."

Dean Whitlow said the general synod's response to a straightforward request for information was "quite sinister."

"If anyone wants to know what salary is paid to the Archbishop (of British Columbia) or to anyone in the synod office, the information is freely given. Yet the general synod in Toronto tells us such information is confidential."

Dean Whitlow said he was alarmed by the flood of mimeographed communications which reached him from the various church information services.

Rhinoceros Born

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Zoo is accepting congratulations today on a new birth—a rhinoceros named Harvey. Harvey, weighing 75 pounds, was born April 19—the fifth rhinoceros in United States zoo history to be born in captivity. Zoo officials withheld announcement of the birth for a week to prevent a

"I find that mail has been coming to me under 13 separate headings, and in such quantities that it would require three hours reading a day for two months to keep up with it."

Canon George Biddle of St. John's Church, Victoria, said he thought the general synod should be told why its request for a larger contribution had been refused.

A small committee was appointed to frame a resolution to this effect.

R. W. Phipps, treasurer of the Vancouver Island synod, announced a new plan for the payment of supplementary pensions to retired clergymen in the diocese.

Under terms of the estate of the late Emily Garrod, a fund of about $200,000 has been set in trust for this purpose.

Mr. Phipps said the fund would provide basic pensions for retired clergymen up to a maximum of $800.

OAK BAY INTERESTED

Mountain View Seen as Likely Recreation Site

By AB KENT

A fifty-three-acre site in the centre of Oak Bay is suggested as the location of a proposed recreation centre.

It is the city-owned home for elderly men—Mountain View—fronting on Cadboro Bay Road, Bowker Avenue and Cranmore Road.

The city proposes to close the home permanently at the end of the summer, and to date has no alternative use for the land or building.

Although the site on its rocky, sloping perch has been suggested as a possible high rise apartment lot, the land is zoned for single family dwellings.

Oak Bay controls the zoning, and if the site were considered for recreation use, high-rise would be ruled out.

DEPENDS ON PRICE

Reeve George Murdoch made the suggestion that the land would be most suitable for a public-recreation development, provided the city would sell at a reasonable price.

No serious consideration has been given yet to the idea, although Coun. John D. Watts, chairman of lands and building committee for Oak Bay, is taken with it.

"Offhand, it would seem to be well located geographically. I would like to have close look at it," he said.

Victoria Man Wins Health Service Post

Promotion of Dr. K. I. G. Benson to the post of assistant provincial health officer in Victoria was announced today by Health Minister Eric Martin.

Dr. Benson, who joined the British Columbia health department in 1956, was previously director of the division of health units here.

Mr. Martin also announced appointment of Dr. G. R. F. Elliot to deputy provincial health officer in Vancouver. He was formerly assistant provincial health officer there.

Probe Asked Into Quittings

EDMONTON (CP) — The post office department has asked the Civil Service Commission to investigate a mass resignation of post office employees at Fort St. John, B.C.

All seven permanent employees at Fort St. John resigned March 31. A spokesman said they quit to protest the dismissal of a part-time employee and "dissatisfaction with local administration."

Firm Encourages Political Activity

SYMBOLIZING the spirit of St. Joseph's Hospital's current building fund drive is Mrs. Kathleen Allan, RN, a clinical instructor at the hospital. Mrs. Allan won $85 in a hockey pool on the recent Stanley Cup finals. She promptly marched over with it to the campaign office and gave the entire sum to the fund. Total received to date is close to $130,000. Public appeal goal is $350,000 out of $2,700,000 needed to finance a new wing and needed interior improvements.

A big cement company headed by a former federal cabinet minister has publicly encouraged its employees to participate in the June 18 election campaign.

The policy, announced by James Sinclair, fisheries minister in the last Liberal government at Ottawa, was trailed by B.C.'s New Democratic Party Leader Robert Strachan as "real leadership."

Mr. Sinclair mailed Mr. Strachan a notice issued to all employees of LaFarge Cement Co. of North America. Mr. Sinclair became president of the company, which has its main plant in Vancouver, after leaving politics in 1958.

The notice says any employee can have leave of absence to become an election candidate or to perform campaign duties on polling day.

If an employee should win election, says the notice, he will still be granted leave of absence to go to Ottawa, retain full seniority and all fringe benefits—pension, medical and welfare coverage to which the company contributes.

Mr. Sinclair explained, "When I was active in politics, I found that many businessmen would decry the call of political candidates but, at the same time, would not permit their own employees to seek nomination or take an active part in political campaign."

"I disliked this attitude when I was in politics and, now that I am in business I feel I should be consistent with this attitude."

Said Mr. Strachan: "This is a real injection into the political bloodstream and if this were done by all business it would make it possible for all parties to obtain the highest calibre candidates both provincially and federally."

Mr. Sinclair's notice to employees says: "Employees should feel free to take an active interest in the political party of their choice."

Leave of absence without pay will be granted for the duration of the campaign for an employee who is a candidate; and for a successful one, will be extended for the duration of a session—either of Parliament of the B.C. legislature.

Employees who want to work as scrutineers, drivers or poll clerks June 18 will also get unpaid leave of absence.

these quick freezer tricks add appeal to every meal

If you think a home freezer is just a means of cutting food costs — or saving shopping trips — or improving family nutrition, you're missing all the adventure of home freezing! Certainly it will help you do all these things, but the real magic of a home freezer is in the exciting ways you can use it to add variety while you save time in preparing every meal.

COOK DOUBLE: IT'S HALF THE TROUBLE! Next time you make a meat loaf, casserole, stew or chili pot — in fact, any savoury mixed dish — remember, it's almost as easy to make two. Serve one now and store the other in the freezer for future reference. And you'll always be prepared for busy days or unexpected guests with a delicious, ready-to-heat dinner. Think of the pot-and-pan washing you'll save, too.

EVER SEEN SQUARE GRAVY — OR EGG CUBES? That last-minute gravy-making chore can set the whole meal off schedule — so why not freeze up a stock of ready-to-serve gravy cubes with your next roast? Just pour surplus gravy into ice cube trays, freeze and pack the cubes in freezer bags. Same trick works beautifully with heart-warming home-made soups and soup stocks: wonderful when the weather turns suddenly chilly! Even eggs can be frozen in cubes — at a big saving if you buy them at low, seasonal prices.

HOW TO BRIGHTEN BREAKFASTS — Start the morning right with nourishing, home-frozen fruits and juices — then follow up by warming pre-cooked frozen waffles in the toaster — or top off by warming home-baked frozen fruit muffins in the oven.

STOCKPILE SANDWICHES AND LUNCH BOX SPECIALTIES If sandwich lunches are in constant demand in your home, a freezer can be a real time-saver. Make a big variety of sandwiches once a week — wrap them up, label and freeze. You can do the same with special hostess sandwiches, too, and store them days or weeks before the party. And don't forget lunch desserts: freeze individually wrapped servings of freshly-baked or leftover cake, tarts or cookies, ready to pop into lunch boxes for a quick getaway in the morning.

FILL YOUR FREEZER WITH "HURRY-UP DINNERS" — Use leftover meat slices and vegetables arranged on freezer plates to make your own nutritious, ready-to-heat frozen TV dinners for evenings when you're in a rush. Then top the meal off with one of those delicious pies you baked in quantity when fruits and berries were selling at low, in-season prices.

Enjoy the fun of freezing—and if you need information, please feel free to call our Home Service Centre at any time for new freezer ideas — The number is EV 2-9261.

Buoys to Warn Of Enemy Subs

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The rudiments of a stationary underwater submarine alarm system will be in place off Canada's coasts by next year, defence officials disclose.

The system will be based on moored sonobuoys dropped by aircraft far out at sea in the likely channels of approach for a submarine bombardment of North America.

Officials said the RCAF now is developing a moored sonobuoy capable of being monitored by patrolling aircraft. The sonobuoy will listen for submarines, store up any detection information it receives and deliver it on instruction from an interrogating aircraft.

In this way, Canada's maritime forces will be able to cover immeasurably more ocean than they now do with planes and warships.

HAVE MISSILES

Intelligence reports say that Russia now has some submarines capable of launching missiles some 350 to 500 miles. This means a hostile submarine would not have to come near the North American coast to bombard seaports. And if it did approach close in, it could hit inland cities.

The new moored sonobuoy is intended just as much as a research tool as an instrument of submarine defence.

Canada recently has stepped up its program to gather oceanographic data.

As part of this program, the maritime forces have begun a study of general sound conditions in the ocean. These conditions have a highly important bearing on anti-submarine operations.

WORK TOGETHER

The study of sound propagation in the ocean depths involves ships working various sea areas throughout the year, though not specifically for this purpose because of interest to Canadian defence planners.

Gathering of sound data by ship is time-consuming. Recent sound advances in the electronics field, however, will make it possible to collect a great deal of the required information from moored sensor buoys.

These buoys thus will serve two purposes at the same time: They will provide data on underwater sound waves which are bent like light waves striking a glass prism while they keep an ear out for submarines.

What the defence planners are looking for is an underwater sound system to detect and track submarines in the same way that a radar system detects and tracks aircraft. The moored sonobuoy represents a beginning.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Board of Directors of the Maritime Museum of B.C. entertained official and unofficial friends at a dinner in the ward-room of HMCS Naden Tuesday evening.

Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes told the guests it was a small gesture of gratitude on the part of the museum board for increasing public support.

Among the guests were Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, Mayor R. B. Wilson and reeves of adjoining municipalities.

The royal commission on workmen's compensation will hold its first public hearing May 10 in Vancouver.

Chief Justice A. C. Des-Brasay was appointed to head the inquiry at the last session of the B.C. legislature.

Commissioner Victor Dryer has invited anyone wishing to appear at hearings to contact him at Room 1951, 970 Burrard St., Vancouver.

St. Margaret's Parents' Auxiliary will meet in the school gymnasium tonight at 8.

A budget increase of more than 30 per cent went under the spotlight Wednesday as Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee planned the work program for 1962.

The provisional budget was set at $28,600—expected to be shared equally—with little hope that it could be reduced. "There's not a single dollar of padding here, it is the absolutely essential minimum maintenance program," city parks administrator W. H. Warren told the committee.

"These parks have been neglected in the past and they are being heavily used by the public now." Committee was scrutinizing the estimates for Mount Douglas, Beaver-Elk Lake and Gorge Parks at press time.

Residents in the Willows-McBriar area can now hook up to the recently completed sewer system for the district, Saanich municipal engineer Neville Life said today. Sewers are now in operation.

But residents on Pear Street in the Gordon Head-Shelbourne sewer district will not be able to connect to their system until May 15, he said.

Drought Puts Waterfowl Into 'Alarming Decline'

OTTAWA (CP) — A major Canadian program aimed at halting "the alarming decline" in the continent's waterfowl population will be launched immediately, it was announced today.

The program will involve expanded research, a Canada-wide harvest survey and a public information program, said the announcement by the office of Resources Minister Dinsdale, who was in Boissevain, Man., today.

One of the main steps will be the establishment of pilot projects in the Prairie provinces to work out the best methods of preserving and managing waterfowl breeding areas.

Drought in the Prairies—the continent's major breeding area for wild ducks—has cut into the size of the population.

Two-thirds of the continent's ducks are produced in the pot-holes or sloughs of the Prairies. The drought conditions and drainage of agricultural lands have reduced the nesting sites. A committee of experts of the Canadian and American governments, which has been studying the problem of the dwindling game bird population, recommended the many pronged program.

The Canadian wildlife service, working with the federal agriculture department and the provinces, will study the best methods of preserving the breeding grounds in the pilot schemes.

They will also determine what benefits can be gained by Prairie farmers who maintain potholes on their land.

Under the plan proposed by the committee the two federal governments would purchase and manage the Prairie potholes or enter into long-term agreements with the farmers on whose land the ducks have been breeding.

220,000 SQUARE MILES

The sprawling nesting area covers 220,000 square miles, most of southern Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

A nation-wide harvest survey will also be launched to determine whether too many ducks are being bagged by hunters.

The survey will help in setting future season and bag limits for the game birds.

Canadian and U.S. agencies will co-operate in producing brochures and reports on the waterfowl situation, explaining the need for limits in catches and seasons.

The two-country committee in its report released last month said the continental stocks of redhead, canvasback and ruddy ducks are very low and that the black duck is being hunted too heavily. The harvest of Canada geese also required close attention and the white-fronted goose was being hunted at too great a rate.

The committee was headed by U.S. Assistant Secretary of the Interior Frank P. Briggs and E. A. Cote, deputy minister of the Canadian northern affairs and natural resources department.

Huge fleets of Russian "fishing boats" prow the seven seas, loaded with so much radar, sonar and photographic equipment that they have hardly enough room to carry a sardine. # LIFE of the PARTY!

CHARLIE ALWAYS REMEMBERS

Depend on Charlie never to forget, even when his firm suddenly makes him fly up to Prince George on the very weekend we're celebrating a birthday. And sure enough, it was the long distance call he made that eventually got the party mood going.

Charlie is always the life and soul of a party — and how he hates to miss one! As long as he can reach a telephone, bless him, he very rarely does.

After 6 p.m. each evening (and all day Sunday) long distance rates drop by about one quarter. Vancouver to Kamloops, for example, can cost as little as $1.05.

Why don't YOU phone somebody near or dear tonight, when long distance rates are lower?

ATOP COVENTRY CATHEDRAL

'Copter Puts Spire in Place

COVENTRY, England (AP) — A helicopter delicately placed an 80-foot bronze spire into place atop Coventry's new cathedral today.

A large crowd watched the 10-minute aerial operation, collectively holding its breath.

The RAF helicopter rose in a whirl of dust and hovered over a scaffolding tower as workmen coupled two nylon slings to the spire. Then the helicopter slowly rose, lifting the 14,000-pound spire below it.

Gently the spire was guided by ground crews hanging on control ropes to its position on a yard-wide base plate fixed to the cathedral roof. Another crew then secured it with steel anchoring bolts.

The helicopter then flew back to pick up a half-ton "flying cross" which will be placed on top of the spire later today.

This abstract creation by sculptor Geoffrey Clarke has been likened to a phoenix arising from the ashes — as Coventry arose from its wartime Nazi bombing.

The new cathedral, with a huge tapestry by artist Graham Sunderland, will be formally dedicated May 25.

'STUDENTS MUST BE DEDICATED'

GANGES — Grade IX students with C-plus marks have little chance of passing from grade XII at the university level, school principal J. M. Evans told Salt Spring Island Elementary-Secondary School PTA here.

"Students must be dedicated to achieve a successful university program," he said. "Universities will not accept students without proven scholastic ability."

4-H Members Plan Show For Building

Members of Saanich 4-H Clubs hope to raise funds from a concert Friday to pay for the completion of a 4-H building at the Saanichon agricultural fair grounds.

The concert will start at 8 p.m. in Saanichon Agricultural Hall.

Performers will include members of 4-H clubs. Hans Steffen, a singer, is one of several local professionals who will also take part.

Show is called the Gypsies and will feature folk songs, musical skits and demonstration of square dancing.

Director is Gypsy Mahaffey. When finished, the building will be of two levels, the ground floor for livestock exhibits and the upper level for 4-H meetings.

All members of Saanich 4-H clubs will be permitted to use the building.

North and South Saanich Agricultural Society provides the materials and the children and their parents have been contributing the labor. They plan more such entertainments to swell the building fund.

Sooke Day Float For Parade Links Past, Present

Old and new will be combined in Sooke's float for the Victoria Day parade.

A prize of $25 was won by 21-year-old logger Robert Nelson for the design which shows the bow of an Indian canoe at the front of the float and a modern pleasure craft at the rear.

The canoe represents the one in which Captain W. Colquhoun Grant, the area's first settler, landed in Sooke Harbor in 1849.

The float will carry Miss All-Sooke Day, 1962, with her princesses. She will be chosen from eight candidates entered in the contest.

OIL DERRICK BREAKS QUADRA POWER LINES

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP)—Nearby Quadra Island was without electricity Wednesday night after power lines across Seymour Narrows were cut.

A 150-foot oil drilling rig from Galveston, Tex., was being pulled through the narrows by the converted freighter Cuff II when it caught the four power lines, cutting them and pulling down wooden towers supporting the lines.

B.C. Hydro officials said it may take a week to restore normal power to the island's 244 residents, who were attempting to put a diesel generator into operation.

Indians' Right To Franchise 'Unnoticed'

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP)—The granting of the federal franchise to Canadian Indians—marking a "profound change" in their status—has gone almost unnoticed, the Indian Community Life Conference was told here Wednesday.

Rev. David Powell of Powell River said he was surprised that the important decision in the Commons last week went unheralded. He urged the conference, sponsored jointly by the United Church of Canada and the Anglican Church, to emphasize this right to Indians before the federal election June 18.

V. R. Curtis, of the Nanaimo branch of the department of citizenship and immigration, stressed that the federal vote will not deprive the Indian of his land and reserves.

Jim Jampolsky of Vancouver, director of the Indian affairs education branch, said the department can make no immediate expansion of assistance to Indians in the primary and secondary school levels.

He said, however, there are

Move Fleet West, Liberal Demands

A call for a bigger west coast naval fleet was issued by Liberal David Groos Wednesday night as he opened his Esquimalt-Saanich federal election campaign at Shawnigan Lake.

"The time has come when more of Canada's navy should be stationed on the west coast," Mr. Groos told a meeting at Shawnigan Lake Community Hall.

"There are almost three times as many ships and men on the east coast," said the former navy captain. "Let's bring some of them home."

Mr. Groos said the west coast would now be just as much in need of submarines and escort vessels as the east in the event of a war.

TORIES TO BLAME

Speaking with Mr. Groos was Oak Bay Liberal MLA Alan Macfarlane.

He accused the Conservative federal government of being just as much to blame as the B.C. Social Credit government for failure to go ahead on the Columbia River power project.

"It will be to the everlasting disgrace of Bennett and his advisers, and to Diefenbaker and his ministers, that the development of our rich power resources has been sidetracked by their political skirmishing on the one hand and by their amateurish and inept handling of the whole situation on the other."

"One would think that public power development should be a matter settled on a basis of public interest first, and political interest last?" said Mr. Macfarlane.

DOUGLAS NOMINATED IN REGINA

'NDP Can Beat Tories in West'

By SCOTT SCHILL

REGINA (CP) — The Regina CCF-NDP organization has put forth federal hopes in a seven-time winner, their national leader and, former premier, Thomas Clement Douglas, 57.

He was given the federal nomination without opposition Wednesday night by the more than 1,000 party members in an exuberant meeting that gave Mr. Douglas four standing ovations.

The seat, held by the CCF from 1953 to 1958, was won for the Progressive Conservatives in the 1958 election by Ken More.

Mr. Douglas, 57, immediately opened his federal election campaign, which today takes him to Wakaw in northern Saskatchewan, then Friday to Rosetown in western Saskatchewan and Saturday to Swift Current in the southwest.

Mr. Douglas outlined the NDP's platform and predicted this is the only party that will defeat the Progressive Conservatives west of the Great Lakes.

SEES CONTEST

He said that except for Quebec and Newfoundland, the contest June 18 will be mainly between the NDP and the Tories.

"I shall direct the major part of my campaign to dealing with the Diefenbaker record."

Mr. Douglas linked the prime minister and the Progressive Conservatives with big business and large corporations.

He said 91 per cent of all Canadians own no stocks, seven per cent own less than $5,000 worth and two per cent own the remaining stocks.

"This is the free enterprise system that Mr. Diefenbaker is advocating."

Mr. Douglas said since the end of the war, Canada's planning has been for monopolies and big corporations.

"The time has come when we must elect a government that will plan for the people."

LINKS DIF

He also linked Mr. Diefenbaker with the Canadian Chamber of Commerce's "Operation Freedom."

"It is no accident that . . . Operation Freedom was timed to coincide with the general election called by Mr. Diefenbaker. This is the reply of big business to the ordinary citizen of Canada for their attempt to form a new party.

He said that by adopting the NDP's policy of democratic economic planning, Canada can promote economic growth and provide full employment.

He said farmers and other primary producers can be given an adequate and stable income through establishment of producer marketing boards and by introduction of parity prices.

He said the NDP would provide a comprehensive system of social security including a complete health service.

The NDP would establish a portable pension scheme, with both employee and employer sharing payments, that would pay pensioners about two-thirds of their income based on the best 10 years of their earning life.

Duck Toys Mostly Cotton

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan today replied to Canadian reports that thousands of day-old chicks and ducklings were being slaughtered in Japan, stuffed with sponge rubber, and exported to Canada as toys.

A trade ministry spokesman said exports of these toys had been negligible since 1950 when importing nations had objected for humanitarian reasons.

At present toys of this kind are mostly made of Pakistan cotton specially processed, he said.

TANKS, GUNS ROAR THROUGH EAST BERLIN

BERLIN (AP)—East German tanks and heavy guns rattled through the empty streets of East Berlin at dawn today, practicing for the annual May Day parade.

At one point they were only a few yards from the Communist wall.

East Berlin's May Day parade regularly includes heavy military equipment despite the Soviet-Western occupation agreement banning German military equipment from Berlin.

John Squire of Alberni will cover the Kootenays with Mrs. Lois Hagen of Grand Forks.

Alex Macdonald of Vancouver East will be in the same area as Mr. Strachan.

Rae Eddie of New Westminster and Randolph Harding of Kaslo, Shuswap will cover north central B.C.

Leo Nimick of Cranbrook and Cedric Cox, Burnaby, will go into the Interior. Gordon Dowding of Burnaby will be in the Okanagan.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Jack Douglas, Japanese wife Reiko (which she pronounced "Leiko") reminds me very much of my Beautiful Wife—she goes everywhere with Jack just as the B. W. constantly shadows me.

"How come she don't come today?" Reiko said when she, Jack and I met at Lindy's to talk about Jack's books, especially the last one, "A Funny Thing Happened To Me On The Way To The Grave."
"Oh, she doesn't go out with me in the daytime," I said. "Maybe she trusts you day-time—she don't trust you night-time!" laughed Reiko. Jack and Reiko and their baby (Huckberry Hashimoto) are unusual in our town. Jack, who got part of his fame on the Jack Paar Show, and Reiko met in the State Bros. Cafe in Los Angeles when both were appearing there.

"Met 1960 September. We get marry October. Fast! You never know!" Reiko told me. You speak very good English," I said.
"Aw, snow job," shrugged Reiko.
"No, Serious," I said.
"Serious snow job," retorted Reiko. She said she'd had two cups of coffee which made her drunk, and that was why she was talking about everything, including how she has been trying to "lead Jack's books."
"You like his jokes?" asked Reiko.

I A GIGGLER
"I don't understand his jokes. After people laugh, I laugh," she said. "If I understand, I never stop. I a giggler!"
Reiko said she and Jack are so close they've scarcely been separated—"When he leave, I cry." She was wearing a new mink coat which, she said, she tried not to get.
"He said, 'Get, get, get!' I said, 'I don't want.' He said, 'You have to get.'"
So she got and it looked very pretty. Reiko said in some ways she is feeling as well to do as the rich dogs of Japan which have their lunches brought to them by delivery car.

"This man make new business. He make dog lunch. He make penny money serving rich dogs. That's how I feel—like rich dog," said Reiko.
"Except you don't look like dog," I said.
"Aw, snow job!" laughed Reiko.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

DREDGING UNDER WAY AT MARINA SITE

Two-week job of dredging the boat basin at Oak Bay Marina started Wednesday after crews moved in clamshell bucket and mud barge. Part of reconstruction job to cost $450,000, aim is to deepen moorage to a minimum three feet at low tide. Rig will take out some 2,500 yards of bottom muck, mostly clay. Next step will be to drive pilings for new floats.—(Photo by Jorgen Svendsen.)

... HERE ... AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

"Music which would tend to create noisy and boisterous conduct will not be tolerated," says that august body, the Liquor Control Board, in a province-wide directive to B.C. beer parlors.

Strangely, we used to be told that music "soothes the savage breast." But the LCB knows better. It knows that a seasoned beer-parlor patron, on hearing the strains of "Smoke gets in your eyes," is liable to get up and sock the smoker next to him.

Oh, we're a savage lot!

On the notice-board of a Vancouver factory, where staff members proclaim what they have lost, appeared the note:

"MISSING—a kind word from the management!"

Congratulations to Mrs. Mary E. Stanford, 708 Vancouver, who recently passed the provincial driving test in her 83rd year.

Motor vehicles superintendent George Lindsay tells me there are 185 drivers in this province who are over 85 years of age — most of them men.

And there are 19,000 licensed drivers who are over 70. "Age is no limitation," says Mr. Lindsay. "Competence to drive and physical fitness are the only standards."

Victoria's Junior Symphony Orchestra, composed of students from all the high schools, is a joy to everyone. "It has more vim and vigor than the senior organization," said one critic.

Alan Macey, who recorded the orchestra's prize-winning performance in the recent Music Festival, declared: "I have never heard such exuberant playing."

Highland dancer Mrs. Heather Duncan Jolley is leaving for Ottawa next week.

Her husband, Edmund Jolley, is a geo-physicist who graduated recently from the University of British Columbia. He is going to Ottawa to join the staff of the Dominion Observatory.

Good luck to them both!

Clergymen from distant parts of Vancouver Island are attending the 60th session of the Anglican Synod of the diocese of British Columbia at Christ Church Memorial Hall.

Among them are Rev. C. J. Tomas from Port Alice; Rev. H. J. Bibbs, Alert Bay; Rev. J. W. Leighton, Tofino; Rev. R. N. Mugford, Fanny Bay.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Annual meeting of the Silver Threads Service will be held Friday at 4 p.m. at 643 Broughton.

Rehearsals for the 1st Battalion, PPCLI, trooping of the color scheduled for May 12, stepped up to a daily basis at Work Point Barracks this week, with intricate march and counter-march manoeuvres repeated time after time.

The daily workout will be climaxed by a full-dress rehearsal, identical to the actual trooping, on May 12. The public is invited to attend, and nearly 5,000 unreserved seats will be available.

The 1st Battalion Corps of Drums will be joined by two musical groups from Edmonton: the PPCLI Regimental Band and the 2nd Battalion Corps of Drums. They will arrive here May 6.

Saanich has postponed until next year a lands and planning committee program for the construction of swimming pools in various parts of the municipality.

Municipal engineer Neville Life said today the program was set aside because of heavy expenditures involved.

"Besides we have other recreational and park commitments," he said.

Inspection of HMCS Malahat, Victoria's naval reserve division, has been postponed from Friday to Monday, May 7, due to the illness of the inspecting officer, Captain J. C. Little, Hamilton.

Next regular parade will be next Monday.

The Victoria subsection of the Institute of Radio Engineers at their annual general meeting, Wednesday night elected the following officers: D. J. Chorlton, chairman; A. M. Baxter, vice-chairman; D. V. Brumwell, secretary-treasurer.

Any person wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times." Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old notes, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Since I am just starting to play cricket for the first time at school could you please tell me in what year the game was begun to be played? H.P.

A. Earliest evidence is from a drawing depicting two men playing with a bat and ball dated 1250 B.C. The first major match of which the score survives is the Kent versus England match of 1744 at the Artillery ground in London, England.

Buttle Reservoir At Lowest Level

Buttle Lake on Central Vancouver Island is at its lowest level since 1947, but power and fisheries authorities say there will be no harmful effects.

The water level dropped to 710 feet last weekend, 15 feet below normal for this time of year.

By today it had crept up to 714 feet and is expected to rise as mountain snow melts and more rain falls.

Main reason for the low water is the snow-pack is 30 per cent below normal.

Residents in the Campbell River area feared there might be a leak in the earthfill at Upper Campbell dam and that the effects might be serious.

But B.C. Hydro and Power Authority officials dispelled these fears.

NO SHORTAGE

The authority, which operates the dam, is not expecting any shortage of water for Island power requirements.

If the lake were much below normal two years in a row, there might be trouble. But the merger of B.C. Electric and B.C. Power Commission has provided ample reserves for any such event.

The only harmful effect might be a small drop in the fish population.

However, a provincial fish and game official said, "I don't believe there will be any serious effects."

He said a very sudden drop could be harmful, but all indications are that the level will rise again with forecasts of a wet May, and there will be plenty of food to maintain the fish population this summer.

Ten Years Sentence For Drug Trafficking

4-Day Bride Charged With Possession

A bride of four days arrived this morning at city court where her husband was to appear on a burglary charge and found herself arrested.

Sharon Brown (now Mrs. John N. L. Smith) of 451 Superior, was charged with possession of stolen goods.

Her husband and William Stefansson, 534 Trutch, face charges of breaking and entering and theft at Fairfield Jewellery, 313 Cook, early this month and with possession of stolen goods.

Both men are free at the moment on bail of $1,500 each.

Mrs. Smith told Magistrate William Ostler she was married on Monday this week.

ASKS REMAND

Lawyer David Hummel asked Magistrate Ostler to remand the case without election or plea and applied for bail.

Mr. Ostler set bail at $500 and remanded Mrs. Smith to May 3.

Shortly afterwards Mr. Hummel appeared again on behalf of Smith and Stefansson and asked the magistrate for a further remand in their case "in view of this morning's arrest."

They, too, were remanded a week.

'BOUQUETS' FOR YOUNG 'SHUTTLES'

Despite occasional rancor over the amalgamation issue, city council can see and praise the best in Oak Bay.

That became clear today in a notice of motion by Ald. Michael Griffin heaping praise on four local youngsters who won titles at last month's Canadian Junior Badminton Championships in Montreal.

Of the four persons singled out for congratulations in "bringing to the community they represented great credit," three live in Oak Bay and only one in Victoria.

The four winners were Judith Hunter, 50 Beach Drive; Diana Godfrey, 2047 Newton Street; Alison Day-Smith, 2150 Lansdowne Road; and Alexander Barloewen, 1551 Brooke Street.

Grit Chief Will Speak Here Tuesday

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson will speak at a Victoria rally in Central Junior High School Tuesday night as he launches his first B.C. federal election tour—a whirlwind 29-hour "mainstream" dash to the coast and interior.

Mr. Pearson will arrive at Patricia Bay airport at 7 p.m. and will be whisked straight to the school for a speech and "public reception" from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

He will shake hands and mix with the crowd in the school gymnasium.

Appearing with him will be Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Groos and Victoria candidate Foster Isherwood.

It will be the first big meeting of the June 18 election campaign here.

Mr. Pearson will come back again, probably in June, for a major speech here.

The Liberal leader will start his B.C. visit with a morning press conference in Vancouver.

FLY TO KELOWNA

He will leave Victoria early next Wednesday morning and fly to Kelowna.

There a car cavalcade will take him touring downtown streets, and he will speak at a buffet luncheon at noon.

He will take off again right away for Cranbrook, where he will do some more "mainstreaming," shaking hands and chatting with local residents.

"Wherever there are 20 people or more, he will stop for a short speech," said a Liberal campaign official.

After his stroll through Cranbrook, Mr. Pearson will attend a coffee reception, make another speech, and fly off to Lethbridge and Calgary, where he has a night rally to address.

A great deal of his time will be spent in informal, on-the-street meetings. Liberal officials believe this is the way to get the best impression of the voters.

Mr. Pearson will be accompanied by a speech by Archbishop Harold Sexton.

Victoria's smoke nuisance is getting worse and should be stopped, the archbishop told the 60th session of the Synod of the Anglican diocese of B.C.

Mr. Clark said that the amount of air pollution here compares favorably with that recorded in mainland centres like Vancouver, New Westminster and Seattle.

He said initial evaluations of smoke recorded by recently-purchased equipment show relatively low amounts present in Victoria's air.

UNFAIR COMPARISON

"Perhaps we are unfair in making comparisons with larger centres," Mr. Clark said. "It might be that we should be only drawing comparisons with La Jolla, California, and other tourist centres."

"One thing that has emerged clearly, however, is that the amount of air pollution here does not constitute a health hazard by the accepted standards, although it may be a nuisance as Archbishop Sexton says."

'You Have Preyed On Minds, Bodies'

A 67-year-old man received a 10-year prison term in RCMP court here today for trafficking in narcotics.

"You have preyed on the minds and bodies of other people," said Stipendiary Magistrate D. G. Ashby as he handed out the sentence to Chu Poy, 521 Fisgard.

Chu was arrested April 17 as he left the ferry terminal at Swartz Bay for Victoria aboard a bus. RCMP had mounted a 24-hour watch on the terminal after receiving a tip-off from Vancouver police that he was on his way.

He was taken to Sidney RCMP headquarters and searched. On him were found 100 capsules of heroin, worth about $10 each.

Two days later he appeared before Magistrate Ashby and pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking.

Police said Chu was not himself a user of drugs.

Maximum penalty for trafficking under the Narcotics Act is life imprisonment.

Enumerators Needed For Election

Returning officer for the federal riding of Victoria today called for 175 volunteer enumerators to turn out at once in order to prepare for the June 18 election.

Edmund J. de St. Jorre said that enumerators for the riding, which comprises the city, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, and the Saanich "panhandle," must be found right away if the local electoral machinery is to operate properly and in time for the election. Enumeration is due to begin on Monday.

Volunteers will be processed immediately upon their getting in touch with the office, 847 Yates, EV 2-7942.

At the same time, Mr. de St. Jorre called for all those already appointed enumerators to pick up their kits at 9 a.m. on Saturday from the office.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Guaranteed No-Iron Fabric
Now Used in Ladies' Blouses

By PENNY SAVER

Sometime ago I told you about white cotton shirts for men, guaranteed to need absolutely no ironing, a blessing for housewives as well as bachelors.

If you happened to miss that particular item, I'll tell you again that these shirts come in collar sizes from 14½ to 17½ in all sleeve lengths, with short point semi-spread collars and two-way cuffs that can be buttoned or worn with cuff links. The price for this exciting new shirt is only $6.

What I'm really leading up to by repeating myself about the shirts is that this wonderful fabric is now being used for ladies' blouses.

Blouses are made of top wash 'n' wear performance, permanent self-ironing cotton that's guaranteed safe to bleach and has permatex double-life collar. They feature shirt tails, three-quarter roll-up sleeves and soft collar.

They are smart for casual wear or for office or afternoon. Sizes range from eight to 20. Price is $4.95.

All you do is wash, spin, tumble dry and hang them up. Small wrinkles that are left will come out when shirt is on hanger. Blouses are sanforized and contain no resin so they won't turn yellow.

Another product worth mentioning at this time of year is suntan lotion. It won't be long now before the common cry after a sunny weekend will be, "look out for my sunburn!"

Lotion one-druggist told me about affords a quick and even tan with a soft fine texture. There's no risk of parching or irritation. It's made by a French cosmetic manufacturer, has a pleasant scent, and is available in a tube. It rubs right in.

A tube containing three and one-eighth ounces sells for $2. Wondering where I saw these items? Call me and I'll tell you. Penny, EV 2-3131.

'Canada Approved' Stamp Labels
Meat and Poultry Right for You

OTTAWA (CP)—To be absolutely certain you are buying good meat for your family, deal only with reliable retailers whose policy is to sell only meat inspected and stamped "Canada Approved."

That's the advice of the Consumers Association of Canada. Dr. C. K. Hetherington, director of the federal meat inspection services, says more than 85 per cent of meat and poultry consumed in Canada now is inspected, compared with about 70 per cent in 1956.

Last January, 225 meat establishments had federal inspection. Twenty have been added since then, and another 20 will be added within the next three months. The meat inspection service has received more than 150 applications for inspectors since January, and Dr. Hetherington says "every effort is being made to accommodate them."

DOUBLE INSPECTION

Federal inspectors examine animals—before and after slaughter, and plant facilities must meet federal sanitation regulations.

Federally-inspected and approved meat bears a round stamp, brown with a crown in the centre and the words "Canada Approved." The stamp is also found on labels of canned and packaged meats.

Federally-inspected poultry bears the words Canada Approved on the label which also notes the grade. But poultry that has been graded has not necessarily been inspected. Only plants that export meat to another province, or country, are required by law to have federal inspection, but many others use the service.

The consumer section of the federal agriculture department says beef inspected may also be stamped by federal graders. Veal, lamb and pork are not sold by grades.

The top beef grade is Canada choice red brand, which comes from young steers to helters of choice quality, and has a high proportion of meat to bone. It has good covering of fat, and the lean is well marbled with fat.

Canada good blue brand has a slightly lower proportion of fat to lean, meat than Canada choice.

Canada standard brown brand has a lower proportion still of fat to lean meat. Other grades are rarely seen on the retail market.

includes men. TORONTO (CP)—Fifty representatives of about 350,000 members of the newly-formed United Church Women opened a three-day meeting here on Tuesday.

United Church Women was formed in January to replace two other national church groups, the Women's Missionary Society and the Women's Association.

The board of women, the new organization's governing body, has 12 members-at-large, the president and one representative from each conference of the church and a representative from each of the other church boards. Seven of the members are men.

Try a Fitting to Find Elbow Dart Location

"Dear Eunice, "My arms must be shorter than the pattern calls for because the elbow darts are always down too low for me. Is there a simple way of measuring for this?" Mrs. C.M.

Dear Mrs. C.M. "I would suggest that you baste the elbow darts in and not change them until after you have basted the sleeve into the armhole. When the sleeve is adjusted correctly, you can bend your elbow and the darts or fullness must be at the exact bend of your elbow. You will probably only have to do this once and you will know just how much to shorten all sleeves. This adjustment would mean taking a fold in the pattern ABOVE the elbow.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

To Apply Make-Up Right
Have Right Tools, Lighting

It is not only important to know how to apply make-up, but to have the proper tools and lighting.

Practically all women have emery boards, nail scissors, tweezers, a razor, cuticle snippers, nail brushes and all of the most usual equipment for good grooming. However, there is an item which is too often missing, namely, a really good, large magnifying glass!

I must warn you that this is not for you if you are neurotic, because it is most discouraging even to the greatest beauty. Every pore stands out and a superfluous hair may look like a telephone pole, but you can do a wonderful job of shaping your brows and applying eye make-up.

This mirror is also a fine thing to have, if it doesn't "throw" you, because it does show up every defect. You see the shadow of things to come sooner than you otherwise would.

The light in which you apply your make-up is also an important factor in how you look. Women sometimes fail to realize that make-up which looks beautiful at night may appear garish in the daytime.

Daytime make-up should be much lighter. Therefore, it is reasonable to put on your make-up for anytime in artificial light and expect the best.

Fluorescent lights are awful for making up, and soft lights at your dressing table may deceive you concerning the way you really look. Have good, unshaded electric lighting for nighttime making up, and good daylight for applying your cosmetics for daytime wear.

Place your dressing table by a window. Remember that you should wear pinker make-up at night because artificial lights drain the color from your base and powder.

Hundred Years of Hospital Work Reviewed

Guests attending a centennial tea arranged by the Women's Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital in the lounge of the nurses' residence, Wednesday, afternoon, took a journey back over 100 years of life in Victoria.

Spotlight was on work done by women's groups in the city to assist the sick, from the days of the old Royal Hospital for men only on the edge of Reserve, across the harbor, to the present time.

Speaker was Miss Flora Hamilton Burns, descendant of Victoria pioneers.

Miss Burns traced the development of hospital work among women, first through the opening of a Victoria Female Infirmary on View Street almost 100 years ago, then a Samaritan House for maternity cases on Esplanade Street where the Market Building stood (now a city parking lot).

Finally, through efforts of the women's group, the three hospitals were joined and housed on the present site of the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

In the years since that time the work of the women's auxiliary has grown with the hospital, the speaker said, and it has never lost sight of its original purpose to assist with the needs of patients in public and maternity wards and in the care of all patients.

In the past 70 years it has given an overall sum of $273,595 in cash to the hospital and completed numbers of worthwhile projects there. Speaker was introduced by auxiliary president, Mrs. H. G. Southin and thanked by Mrs. P. E. Corby.

Following the meeting, afternoon tea was served with Miss Sara Spencer, Mrs. Edwin Tomlin, Mrs. K. W. L. Scace and Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, presiding at the tea table. Among invited guests were representatives of other present and former women's groups in the hospital and of other hospital groups in the city.

DOES MORE FOR YOU

DEAR ABBY . . .

For Smokers Only!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My man smoked three packs of cigarettes a day and chewed up a whole box of snuff, too. He said that his mouth felt like the bottom of a bird cage. He got a prescription from his doctor for something that was guaranteed to curb his desire for smoking. I don't know what it was, but I know I saw a miracle happen because my husband hasn't smoked in 4 years.

OLLIE'S WIFE

DEAR ABBY: One day 12 years ago, I decided that smoking was a filthy, stupid and expensive habit, so I made up my mind to quit. This is what I did. The moment I walked into a room, I announced, "I've quit smoking." After that I couldn't very well burn a cigarette off anyone, and I didn't carry them myself. I knew that I didn't dare beg a smoke or I'd make myself look like a real jerk. It was a matter of pride.

NO JERK

DEAR ABBY: After having the cigarette habit for 40 years, I took my cigarettes out of my pocket and said, "You have been bossing me around for 40 years, now I am going to boss you around." I put away the pack and never smoked again. That was 15 years ago. I'm now 52 and feel fine.

W. H. E. ONTARIO

DEAR ABBY: When I had to have a cigarette before I could open my eyes fully in the morning, I knew I had better quit. I tried to taper off, but that never works. I finally walked into a church one morning (it wasn't even of my own denomination) got down on my knees and prayed to God to deliver me of the habit. And do you know I haven't smoked, or even had the desire to, since? When everything else fails, try prayer.

AN ORDINARY GUY

DEAR ABBY: My husband smoked like a chimney. He had a lung X-ray taken at the suggestion of his physician. A dark shadow was discovered on his lung. Fortunately it was not cancer, but my husband snipped off that part of the X-ray and taped it to a package of cigarettes. He carries it with him constantly and now every time he is tempted to smoke, he looks at that X-ray and takes a peppermint drop instead.

GRATEFUL

DEAR ABBY: Here is a proven method for overcoming the cigarette habit. If a person smokes 40 cigarettes a day, he should cut down to 39 the first day, 38 the second, 37 the third and so forth. It takes a lot of willpower, but if I could do it (I was a 4-pack-a-day smoker for 32 years) anybody can.

WILLPOWER WILL

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50c to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Mrs. W. Rathbone, member of the Adoption Committee for Aid to Displaced Persons, will show her interesting collection of celebrated dolls at a May Tea, arranged by the committee for Tuesday, May 1, in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room, from 2 to 5 p.m. Dolls depict styles and fashions through the ages. There will also be home cooking and miscellaneous stalls and a tombola.

Goddaughter of Lady Mountbatten Wed in Christ Church Cathedral

Christ Church Cathedral was decorated with baskets of calla lilies and gladioli last Saturday evening, for the marriage of Victoria Edwina Campbell Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Fleming of Elk Lake, and Kenneth Alfred Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wright of Vancouver. Canon R. E. H. Howell officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the goddaughter of the late Edwina, Lady Mountbatten.

She chose a gown of snowy organza over heavy satin. The fitted bodice and long-point sleeves were trimmed with appliques of rhinestones and seed pearls. The full skirt was an train.

Her veil, a family heirloom, was of exquisite Brussels lace and she carried a white prayer book, gift of an aunt in Sanford, N.C., topped with a mauve orchid. Her gift from the groom was matching pearls and earrings.

Bridal attendants, the Misses Wendy Crampton, Jacky Coulter and Mrs. M. McPherson wore waltz-length gowns of sapphire blue-satin with matching tulle whimsies. They carried bouquets of yellow and white chrysanthemums and trailing ivy.

Two flower girls, Miss Joan Fleming, sister of the bride, and Miss Debbie McPherson, niece of the groom, were gowned alike in pale blue satin and carried baskets of the same flowers as the senior attendants.

Best man was Gregory McLean and ushering guests to their pews were Ralph Ogglesby and Robert Maxwell, Jr., cousin of the bride.

HUSBAND DIDN'T KNOW

Chief's Wife 'Kept Company' With Gambler

By JOHN LeBLANC
TORONTO (CP)—The blonde wife of Police Chief W. Jack Shrubbs of Peterborough told the royal commission on crime Wednesday that for some months she was meeting and getting frequent telephone calls from gambling boss Vincent Feeley while her unsuspecting husband was a corporal in the Ontario Provincial Police anti-gambling squad.

Mrs. Gladys Shrubbs, speaking barely above a whisper, testified that she gave no information knowingly to Feeley. "Was paid no money by him and quit seeing him after she realized it was 'not the right thing to do,' though he kept telephoning her for another year."

Chief Shrubbs, a key commission witness who has been ripping the lid off purported associations between organized gambling — including Feeley—and political and police officialdom, apparently knew nothing of the 1957 association until another inquiry witness spilled a hint of it recently.

Mrs. Shrubbs testified she spoke to her husband for the first time about it last week, at the request of commission counsel Roland F. Wilson.

She took the stand right after her husband had completed three days of headline-laden testimony that included recitals of big-money bribe offers from Feeley and others to co-operate with gamblers and of reported leakages of confidential information from high levels in the OPP.

The tough Shrubbs was not in the commission chamber while his wife testified. Subpoenaed witnesses have been barred from hearing testimony of others by Commission Chairman Mr. Justice W. D. Roach.

One of Shrubbs' last pieces of evidence Wednesday was to agree with Liberal party counsel B. J. MacKinnon that it seemed the only result from a long series of confidential reports to superiors on police-gambler tieups was that some of the contents of these documents seemed to be getting back to the gambling fraternity.

UDALL HAS POST-ELECTION HOPES

U.S. Extends Time Limit On Columbia Ratification

WASHINGTON (CP)—Interior Secretary Udall Wednesday expressed hope the winner of the June 18 Canadian general election will speed ratification of the Canada-United States Columbia River Power Treaty.

Critical Priest Jailed

WARSAW (Reuters)—A Roman Catholic priest who publicly criticized a 17-year-old girl for writing to an atheist magazine has been jailed for six months, the Warsaw youth newspaper Sztandar Mlodych reported Tuesday.

The newspaper said Rev. Stefan Nogaj, parish priest of Brylna in southwest Poland, was sentenced under a law guaranteeing freedom of conscience in religious matters.

After the girl wrote to the "pen pals" column of the magazine, the priest called on her mother with a warning against her daughter's "bad way of life."

Later the priest said in a sermon "the atheists' organization is one which gives money to people to sell their souls to the devil" and referred to the girl, the newspaper said.

After the sermon the girl felt "like the proverbial black sheep," the paper said. People in the town preferred to stand in the bus rather than sit beside her and parishioners ignored her in the street.

The story said that after the priest's trial the girl had to leave home because the "atmosphere in the place became too bad."

He told a press conference that because of the Canadian election fight and sensitivity of the Columbia issue, he did not want to make any extensive comments "except to express hope that whoever wins the election will get on with the business of ratifying the treaty and building the dams."

At the same time Udall appeared to be extending the time limit for Canadian ratification before seeking development of alternative power sources.

Last November he stated that if Canada did not soon ratify the treaty, the U.S. government would have to ask Congress at this current session for authority to build alternative dams in the U.S. Pacific Northwest.

Udall modified this position Wednesday by suggesting he would be well satisfied if the Canadian treaty is ratified before the end of 1962, so that construction might begin next year.

"If the treaty is ratified by Canada any time this year, none of us will be knocked off our stride in our planning," he said.

The U.S. Army engineers will shortly announce its recommendations that Congress be asked to authorize a number of supplementary power projects in the Columbia River basin and Udall said this report will go to Congress before it winds up its session for November congressional elections.

But the U.S. government will ask only for congressional authority to proceed with planning the supplementary projects—not for appropriation of the necessary funds. This would be left until next year.

Udall said the U.S. "course is set" though the position of the government on power development is still "flexible."

HORSE SHOW ON WEEKEND 'JUST FUN'

Garden City Horsemen's Club plans a horse show this weekend just for fun.

Called a "play day," it will start at 1 p.m. Sunday in a Beaver Lake park field adjacent to Patricia Bay Highway.

Fifteen events will be run off—all of them games rather than the usual equestrian contests in deadly earnest.

They will range from a balloon-breaking event to variations of the familiar musical chairs game.

Many of the events will be for riders under 15.

TESTS REVEAL NEW REASON FOR BENDING ELBOW

Alcoholics Among Baby Chicks

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Teetotaler baby chicks and others that got drunk on beer indicate that body chemistry may make some people alcoholics, a Texas scientist suggested Wednesday.

Dr. Roger Williams of the University of Texas told about it in a report to the 99th annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences.

He said studies at his laboratory indicate that among both experimental animals and human beings, individual specimens are far from uniform anatomically, physiologically or in body chemistry.

And the newest idea, he indicated, is that individual differences in body chemistry and in anatomical features might contribute to differences in behavior—for example in how a person reacts to alcohol, or has a liking for it.

Even in inbred animals, offspring of brother and sister matings, individuality is exhibited, he said.

"Baby chicks from inbred strains differ from each other about tenfold in their susceptibility to intoxication by alcohol. Their liking for alcohol also varies greatly, so that some, if given access to a synthetic beer—four per cent alcohol—will remain intoxicated most of the time, while most will not drink enough to be affected."

SOME ARE TEETOTALERS.

Some chicks, he said, are teetotalers. In the beer tests some of the chicks left it alone "practically entirely."

He said tests with young inbred rats show they vary greatly in their food choices.

"If given a cafeteria selection of meat, carrots, salt, butter, sugar and fortified yeast, some rats will eat seven times as much as others; some will eat 17 times as much sugar as others."

The doctor said the alcohol and food tests with the chicks and rats suggest the following:

"It seems probable that the differences in... endocrine body chemistry activities are related to these behavioral differences."

Aside from the possibility that individual 'biochemistry' may play a role in whether one likes to bend the elbow, "biochemical factors may often be involved in individual susceptibility to diseases—and these would be subject to modification nutritionally or by the use of other chemical agents," he said.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Canada's Smartest Young Mathematician

By JACK HUTTON

"Figures don't seem much fun any more. I find working with pure mathematical concepts much more interesting these days—and more challenging."

Speaking was a tall 18-year-old high school student from Waterloo, Ont., who had just been chosen as Canada's top high school maths scholar.

Robert Zarnke, quiet-spoken with a shock of sandy hair, is the top Canadian entrant in the annual competition sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America.

I visited him recently to find out more about someone who had just finished ahead of 4,658 students from Ontario, Quebec, Labrador, Switzerland and Germany.

Bob, who admits he does not find the standard high school maths course particularly challenging, was calm about his victory as we chatted in his living room. "I thought I'd scored higher," he said.

"When did he first become interested in mathematics?" "It was probably in Grade 11," said Bob. "Since then, I've had a chance to read a certain number of outside books. And I've been very lucky in having excellent and helpful teachers."

We visited his neatly-kept room where a small bookcase testified to Bob's outside reading. Sample titles: "House of Intellect" by Prof. Jacques Barzun, "Elements of Calculus," "Introduction to Atomic Physics," "Einstein's Relativity."

Built Telescope

Only one thing in the room seemed not dedicated to study or sleeping—a four-foot-long white telescope leaning against one corner.

"I built that myself some time ago," explained Bob. "It has a four and one-quarter-inch reflector and must be about 180-power. Someday I'd like to have a solarium to carry this further."

"Of course, you can only do so much with a 180-power telescope," he grinned. "I've been working on something that involves more mathematics recently, a spectroscope."

Bob showed me the plywood base which his father, a school caretaker, had built for the spectroscope. Eventually the young mathematician-astrono-mer will be able to split light into its color spectrum.

"The problem is that you need money for these things," he added. "But by getting your own parts and working on it yourself you can save a great deal. I just keep on collecting them."

What are the future plans of Bob Zarnke?

"I hope to enter the maths course at the University of Waterloo next fall after finishing Grade 13," said Bob. "One of the professors has been very kind in suggesting books to read already. I'm looking forward to carrying on these studies."

Bob's accomplishment seems even more creditable when one realizes that 290 schools from Ontario competed along with 19 from Quebec, one from Labrador, one from Switzerland and one from Germany.

Top girl in the competition was Barbara L. Keyfitz of Forest Hill Collegiate in Ontario. The top school (based upon scores of the top three students) was North Toronto Collegiate. The school with the most students in the top 30 was the University of Toronto Schools.

Try Your Luck

If you've a pencil handy, you might like to try some of the questions from the 80-minute examination which the young mathematicians tried.

They set a standard at which you might aim.

1. If  $8X$  equals 32, then  $X$  equals: (a) 4 (b) 5/3 (c) 3/2 (d) 3/5 (e) 3/4.

2. It is given that one root of  $2X^2$  plus  $5X$  plus 3 equals 0, with  $x$  and  $y$  real numbers, is 3 plus 2i (i equals square root of minus one). The value of  $y$  is:

(a) undetermined (b) 5 (c) 6 (d) minus 13 (e) 26.

The answers: 1 (b), 2 (e).

Watch Out

Just noticed an article in an American magazine advising girls on methods of remodeling their boyfriends' personalities. What a prospect!

Their suggestions: group therapy (get him out with the gang); indirect suggestion (mention how some other chap should improve himself—and hope the hint sinks home); instalment compliment (praise him for something you hope he'll develop). Just doesn't seem fair to the fellows somehow.

How is silk made?

We live in the age of science and every day more and more of our textile materials are woven from fibres of man-made plastics. But the era of nylon and orlon, rayon and dacron is but a blink in the long history of human apparel. Through most of this long time, mankind has woven his textiles from threads and fibres made by nature. Silk-making is a gift of the world of insects.

Many insects have special glands for spinning silken threads. Most of the moths spin silken cocoons around themselves while they sleep through their pupa stage of development. The tent caterpillars spin themselves airy shelters of silken thread. Perhaps the finest and strongest of silken threads is spun by the spider who uses her silk to build a trap for flies.

These silken threads, however, are not sturdy enough to be woven into textiles for human clothing. So far as we know, the only insect to spin a thread suitable for this purpose is the silkworm and this fussy, pampered little caterpillar has been in captivity for thousands of years. Like our pet rabbits, this creature has been cared for by human beings for so long that he could no longer survive in the wild state.

The adult of the silkworm is a fat, furry moth—but this is the fourth and final stage of its complicated life. It starts life as a pale little egg which, in a few days, hatches into a wormy little caterpillar. In about five days, the caterpillar has eaten enough to burst its skin. To feeding is then resumed and altogether the silkworm molts its skin four times.

Spins Silk in Pupa Stage

The larva or caterpillar stage is then over and the silkworm gets ready for its pupa stage. This is when it spins and spins a thread of silk perhaps half-a-mile long and winds it around its body to form a cocoon. It is this thread of silk and thousands like it which is used to weave silken cloth.

A silkworm producer may start with about one ounce of eggs which, with luck and a great deal of patient care, may eventually yield about 12 pounds of raw silk. The fussy silkworms must be kept warm and dry and very quiet. They live on shallow trays lined with paper and their quarters must be carefully cleaned every day. The fussy little worms are at their fussiest in the matter of diet. They will eat nothing but mulberry leaves and these mulberry leaves must be the freshest and the most tender.

Patience is rewarded when the silkworms reach the pupa stage and each weaves its silken cocoon. A few cocoons are allowed to hatch into moths which will lay more eggs.

REPRESENTATIVE of the 2,500 crippled children who have received treatment at Queen Alexandra Solarium is Ross, a 4-year-old who comes from Nanaimo. Afflicted with a dislocated hip, he has spent several months in the hospital and is faced with further months with his legs in steel braces. On Wednesday night he visited Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes who officially opened the 1962 fund campaign run by the Solarium Junior League. It has as its goal the sum necessary to operate the hospital for two months of the year.

$300,000 NEEDED YEARLY

200 Children Depend On Shower of Dimes

Over 200 crippled children under 12 are depending on the donations of the people of B.C. for vital treatment provided by the Queen Alexandra Solarium in 1962.

During May, the junior league is holding its "shower of dimes" campaign to help raise the $300,000 needed each year to meet solarium expenses and provide treatments to children at home and in school. Of this amount, the provincial government, under its Chronic Scheme, contributes about $120,000.

In Victoria, the league will conduct its campaign to raise the remainder in three phases. From May 1 to 15 several thousand letters will be sent to residents asking for donations by mail.

During the whole month, the familiar umbrellas will be placed throughout the city to receive donations. The peak of the campaign, however, falls on May 5, "tag day" all over Greater Victoria. This year, instead of the usual tag, donors will be given a package of lifesavers, as a reminder of the use to which their money is put. There will be no house-to-house canvass. Last year the solarium treated a total of 107 boys and girls as "out-patients" and a further 109 in the hospital itself, providing therapeutic treatments.

The campaign was opened on Wednesday night by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes at Government House.

Monitor Wins Award

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Christian Science Monitor Wednesday was announced as winner of the N. W. Ayer and Son Cup for excellence in typography, makeup and printing. A total of 766 daily newspapers in the English language were judged. The Monitor also won the cup in 1943.

SASK. DOCTORS

No Strike But Also No Work

REGINA (CP)—A Saskatoon and District Medical Society decision that normal practices be halted, if the province's compulsory medical care plan goes into effect unchanged, does not denote strike action in any form, medical authorities said Wednesday.

"Doctors cannot of course strike, but we are not prepared to work under the act," Dr. H. D. Dalgleish of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, said in a telephone interview.

A DILEMMA

Dr. Nathan Goluboff, president of the Saskatoon and district society, said: "We're in a dilemma; how can we practise at all without going under the plan. Obviously we can't practise in our offices, but there is no question of withholding emergency service."

A resolution passed by the society Tuesday night condemned the Medical Care Act and expressed refusal to provide all medical services under the act. The vote was unanimous, with three abstentions.

Dr. Goluboff said the resolution did not mean no service would be provided, but essential services provided would not be under the act and normal practices would be halted.

He said these practices have not been spelled out yet.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd, who has said the plan will go into operation July 1 with or without the co-operation of the doctors, said, "It's their responsibility to decide whether they will give or withhold services to their patients. They accept the consequences of this. They have their own consciences."

Now there's an even better sports car than the TR-3. The TR-4!

The Triumph TR-3 is the hottest sports car in Canada. A hard car to beat. But wait till you see the TR-4. It has all the power of its famous companion. But it's even more exciting to drive and easier to handle. Torque (thrust) is high at all speeds. So the TR-4 does equally well at a modest 50 or a thundering 100. The track is wider, so the TR-4 corners flat as a pancake. The TR-4 is easier to control, too. The new steering system is as effortless as power steering, but far more responsive.

And shifting in motion, even to 1st, presents no problems. The TR-4 has synchromesh on all forward gears. As for coachwork, the TR-4 won a Gold Medal at the Earls Court Show in London. The windows roll up. The top locks in place to rain-proof the interior. And the price is a mere $2989. *Get a test drive. Any dealer will hand you the key.

FIRES SWEEP WOODLANDS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of brush fires swept the northeastern sections of the United States Wednesday, blackening thousands of acres of woodland and damaging several dwellings.

The weather forecast from New Jersey northward through New York and into New England for the next two days is for sunny skies.

An estimated 4,500 acres of grass and timberland were burned in Albany, Schenectady and Saratoga counties of upstate New York.

'Stone-Age' Fishing Gear Deplored

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada's commercial fishing industry is using boats "propelled with converted truck engines and equipped with gear not unknown to fishermen of the stone age," Jean Frechet, vessel and gear chief with the federal department of fisheries, said today.

"True enough, modern tuna purse seiners and modern stern trawlers are under construction on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, but there are still dug-out canoes in the west and open dories on our eastern squid-jigging grounds," he told the Fisheries Council of Canada.

Mr. Frechet suggested that naval architects might turn their hand to designing economic and efficient fishing vessels and gear.

"The Canadian inshore or inland fishermen would benefit greatly from the development of low-cost, standardized combination boats that could be easily adapted to a variety of gear," he said. "It would permit an economical use of more than one type of gear to overcome the seasonality that plagues many of our fisheries."

Stern-trawling and gill-netting techniques being used on the Atlantic coast indicate the changes that are taking place in the industry, he said. By the end of the century, electronic boats with large holds and high speed might make up the fleet.

Diem Protests Truce Team

SAIGON (AP) — President Ngo Dinh Diem has sent letters to 92 chiefs of state and Pope John protesting the conduct of Polish representatives on the international control commission, the government announced today.

Foreign Minister Vu Van Mau told a press conference the Polish delegation on the commission has been discredited because it never acted impartially but always in the interests of the Communist bloc.

Mau hinted South Viet Nam might boycott the three-nation commission which was created in 1954 to oversee the Geneva settlement of the Indochina war. India and Canada are the other two members.

The commission maintains inspection teams in North and South Viet Nam which are supposed to report on infractions of the 1954 settlement.

But the commission has no policing powers and has become so bogged in red tape that it still has before it complaints received years ago regarding buildups of arms in violation of the truce.

FOREIGN 'INVASION' ON

Treaty Need Urgent To Conserve Fishing

QUEBEC (CP) — R. L. Payne, executive of J. H. Todd and Sons Limited, fishing executive, said Wednesday the only hope of controlling foreign vessels fishing in Canadian waters is international agreement.

He told the Fisheries Council of Canada a bilateral treaty with the United States should be negotiated quickly and Canada should "strengthen by all means within her control the International Northwest Atlantic Convention."

Highway Foremen Study Patching

COURTENAY — District highways engineer P. B. McCarthy will conduct road patching courses here in an effort to improve provincial road maintenance.

Seven regional highways foremen are visiting Courtenay this week to learn better road patching methods. Six others from the interior will take the course next week and will assist in conducting courses in their own districts afterward.

Courtenay patching methods were praised by senior maintenance engineer J. Dennison.

THREE LITTLE MAIDS with thistle-down toes and starry eyes were among a bewildering array of young charmers who thronged ballet sessions of the Centennial Dance Festival Wednesday. From left, they

WARNS AGAINST HASTE

City's Talent Impresses Adjudicator at Festival

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Several awards concluded a full day of ballet sessions Wednesday in the Centennial Dance Festival. Janice Mitoff, San Francisco ballet expert, was impressed with the talent paraded before her but continued to warn against progressing too far and too soon in the case of pre-teenage students.

Attendance at Oak Bay Junior High School Wednesday considerably exceeded expectations.

Canadian Dance Teachers (B.C.) Award was made by Miss Mitoff to Janet Davis of Ladysmith, for her performance in the ballet solo 15 years and under.

Banff School of Fine Arts scholarship went to Lydia Watt who placed first in demi-character solo, over 15 years, and second in ballet solo, 15 years and over. Winner of the latter class, Sharon Kirk, was awarded the Mrs. R. Ferguson prize of $50.

SPECIAL PRIZES

Toni Adamson, placing second in ballet solo, 15 years and under, was selected for the Miss Kathleen Agnew prize, and Wendy Walker and Ceredwyn Richards, second in solo class, 13 years and under were awarded Capetio scripts.

Miss Mitoff also announced the names of soloists and groups who will be among those performing on honor programs, Friday and Saturday evenings at Victoria High School. These were, Lydia Watt, Sharon Kirk, Francesca Corkle, Seattle; Wynn Shaw's Dance-Studio presentation of "Lonely Child," Victoria School of Theatrical Arts' interpretive dance, "Tomorrow," and an Irish dance by Belinda McIntyre and Gordon Dash of the Adeline and Heather Duncan Dance Studio.

Concerning "Lonely Child," which featured Debbie Bowes,

Miss Mitoff commented that it was one of the most charming presentations she had seen. Both Debbie in the title role and Susan Hemmings as a rich girl were complimented by the adjudicator who also praised the large supporting cast of dancers.

STUDIOS COMPETE

First and second places were also won by the Katherine Costain School, Vivian Briggs Studios, Florence Clough Studios, Victoria School of Theatrical Arts and Helen Turvey School of Edmondson.

Five "firsts" went to Wynne Shaw Studios which had the largest entry list. Denise O'Brien, Penticton, and Susan Passmore, Edmondson were first-place soloists. A second went to Jean Elizabeth Mackay of Victoria.

Friday-dub Oak Bay Junior and Victoria High School centres will be in action with tap, acrobatic and modern musical classes at the former and Highland dance sessions at the latter.

Friday evening will see the first honor performance at Victoria High with a group national dance competition and a choreography class as part of the program.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Bank to Fight Court Ruling

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER—The Bank of Montreal will contest in the Supreme Court a magistrate's ruling that it must produce documents relating to charges it wrongfully dismissed an employee for union activities.

Walter S. Owen, the bank's solicitor, said Wednesday he will apply for prohibition proceedings this week.

The bank is charged under the Industrial Relations and Dispute Investigation Act with intimidating, and dismissing Marshall W. Bluck, a clerk with the bank for 27 years, for attempting to organize bank employees into a union.

Last week Magistrate Bernard Isman ordered L. E. Tritschler, the bank's B.C. superintendent, to produce documents relating to the case as requested by defence counsel Alex Macdonald.

Wednesday, Mr. Owen produced further argument that an accused person or a corporation under law cannot be forced to give evidence against itself and was again overruled.

"The accused in this case is the bank," said Magistrate Isman. "The witness to be called is merely an employee. He can't be prosecuted but he can be compelled to answer questions."

As soon as Mr. Tritschler was sworn in the bank's counsel asked for an adjournment and served notice he would seek a ruling on the production of documents from the B.C. Supreme Court.

The trial will continue May 9.

TO CREATE PRESS

VANCOUVER — The University of British Columbia will use a $125,000 bequest from the late Frank Burd, former publisher of the Vancouver Province, toward establishment of a university press.

UBC president Dr. Norman MacKenzie said Wednesday the money will be invested and the income used to encourage publication of books by faculty members and scholars in general.

But there are no plans for a printing plant.

NEW PULP MILL

PRINCE GEORGE — Construction of a $7,000,000 pulp mill in the Prince George area will begin next spring.

Bill Radcliffe, local manager of Cooper Widman Company Limited of Vancouver, said plans for the mill are advancing rapidly and it should be in production by the spring of 1964.

A subsidiary company, Northern Craft Ltd., has already been formed to finance, build and operate the pulp mill.

Mr. Radcliffe said the company already has commitments to purchase two thirds of its initial production of 150 tons a day.

MAN BOUGHT SKULL

VANCOUVER—Police want to talk to a man who bought a skull from two boys in Stanley Park for 25 cents.

Gregory Salisbury and George Gregor, both 10, found the skull while playing in the park Monday. It had teeth in good condition but no lower jaw.

The boys told police a woman passing by told them it looked like a child's skull.

Then a man came along with a brown briefcase, said he was an anthropologist, wanted to buy the skull for his son and offered 25 cents. The boys agreed.

Police say they'd like to have a look at the skull.

DYNAMITE IN HAYSTACK

NELSON — Alex Hoodcoff, 54, a Sons of Freedom Doukhobor from Winlaw in the Slokan Valley west of here was to be arraigned in Magistrate's court today charged with illegal possession of explosives. Hoodcoff was arrested Wednesday morning while RCMP were investigating explosions that knocked out a section of a natural gas pipeline and a four-foot stretch of railway tracks. No arrests were made directly in connection with the offence.

It was reported police picked up Hoodcoff after dynamite was found in a haystack.

The RCMP meanwhile arrested two more Freedomites in connection with the March 6 bombing of a power pylon at Kootenay Lake. Pete and Paul Makortoff, sons of senior fraternal council member Andrew Makortoff, bring to nine the number of Freedomites arrested over the bombing.

TRIAL DELAYED

VANCOUVER — Crown prosecutor William Craig said Wednesday the trial of 72 Sons of Freedom Doukhobor leaders charged with conspiracy will not be held for at least a month.

He told suburban Burnaby police Magistrate C. C. Bell the trials could not be held for several weeks because crown exhibits in the case are being examined at the RCMP crime laboratory at Regina.

RACIST STUDY ORDERED FOR HIGH SCHOOL

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Mississippi high school students would be taught that socialism is evil and Negroes are biologically inferior to whites under two bills passed by the House of Representatives Wednesday.

One measure, passed by the Senate, would require that teachers direct student studies of "race and reason," a book by Carleton Putnam supporting white supremacy. The other would provide for a series of seminars to teach students and instructors "the evils of socialism and the basic philosophy of Communism."

Cousin Still Not Convinced Heathman Confession True

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Anna Willoughby, cousin of Charles Heathman, said Wednesday she still isn't convinced that Heathman told the truth when he confessed last week to the murder of 10-year-old Vernon newsboy Donald Otley.

"The main thing now is that he get psychiatric treatment so we can find out the truth," she said in an interview.

"For the sake of the parents of the slain boy and for all concerned he should receive this treatment," she said. "I feel he needs it, just as hundreds of other people need it."

Mrs. Willoughby went to Seattle with Heathman after he made his confession to the Vancouver Sun Friday. She said she didn't know about the confession then.

When she learned Vancouver police were looking for Heathman, she said, she telephoned police here and told them she and Heathman would be returning to Vancouver on Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest.

"I told them that as soon as we arrived I would be committing him to Crease Clinic. Police said that would be fine. He wanted me to commit him. I presume he still wants that."

"I don't know whether his confession was true or not. I don't know whether he confessed because it was true or because he wanted the money. I saw him in the jail in Seattle, and I still don't know if he is telling the truth."

The Sun said it paid Heathman $500 for the confession, which was published Saturday.

"I was horrified when I saw what came out in the paper," said Mrs. Willoughby. "It's such a horrible, tragic affair. What must the parents be going through?"

RUSK ON A-TESTS:

'We'll Keep Trying For Treaty'

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk said today the U.S. will make every possible effort to achieve a treaty banning nuclear tests in spite of its new round of atmospheric tests in the Pacific.

Rusk told a press conference that nations and people around the world deeply regret that the nuclear arms race goes on, but he said there is a deep understanding of the United States' need for testing in view of Russia's rejection of an effective test ban treaty.

The U.S. itself regrets the necessity for the decision to test, Rusk declared, but he said the country must meet its responsibilities.

On other foreign affairs problems, Rusk told reporters:

Berlin—In his talks with Soviet leaders, agreements have not been worked out on any particular point, in spite of a statement by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko earlier this week that some agreements in principle had been achieved. A number of issues related to Berlin could fall into place readily if the central disputes over the future of the city were settled.

Disarmament—Russia's refusal to accept an international inspection system to safeguard a nuclear test ban gives a gloomy outlook for general disarmament.

Summit—Soviet Premier Khrushchev's recent statement that any new summit conference should be carefully prepared means there is a sober realization on all sides that any new summit meeting should not be allowed to fail.

Three Slain After Wild Car Chase

ELMWOOD PARK, Ill. (AP)—Two men and a woman were shot to death today as they sat in a wrecked car at the end of a relentless chase.

The victims, killed by 38-calibre pistol shots, were identified by police as: Phillip Scavo, 36, of Elmwood Park, a massive man who formerly managed a tavern-restaurant.

Ronald Scavo of Chicago, younger brother of Phillip, Lydia Abshire, 28, of Chicago, a divorcee who was employed in an appliance factory in this Chicago suburb.

The killings occurred shortly before 4 a.m. after Phillip Scavo's auto swerved from a street and smashed into a house, causing minor damage.

Police said that apparently several shots were fired during a chase. After the crash, a gunman apparently approached the wrecked car and finished off his victims.

Reds Show Anger, Remain at Talks

AUSSIERS ASK 'NO CHANGE'

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Australia today asked Britain and the six Common Market countries for continued preferential treatment in the British market if and when Britain joins the continental trade group.

An Australian embassy spokesman said Australia asked to be allowed to retain its present degree of preference in the British market against non-Common Market countries.

Starr to Name Rail Chairman

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Labor Minister Starr said today he expects to nominate at the beginning of next week a chairman for a conciliation board to hear arguments in a contract dispute between Canada's 110,000 non-operating railway employees and the country's railways.

He described as "nonsense" a charge by the employees' negotiating committee that he was delaying establishment of the conciliation board.

Strikers Routed

MONTREAL (CP)—An estimated 500 strikers made a motion to stop two trucks from leaving west-end depots of two strike-bound trucking firms today, but fell back before police cars escorting the transports.

Katanga Police Battle Tribesmen

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—A gunfight between Katanga police and Baluba tribesmen broke out today in the huge Baluba refugee camp here guarded by the United Nations force.

European eyewitnesses said UN Irish troops opened fire to break up the fighting and a number of Congolese were believed killed.

But an Irish spokesman later said the UN men fired no shots and nobody was believed killed although three Balubas were injured.

The half-hour clash occurred on the edge of the Baluba camp which is situated near the Irish camp. The refugee tribesmen and the Katanga police both dispersed when four Irish armored cars and a platoon of Irish troops appeared.

SCOTS 'BAN-BOMBERS' INVADE U.S. CONSULATE

GLASGOW (AP)—Scottish ban-the-bomb demonstrators stormed the United States Consulate here today, then staged a sit-down strike inside the building.

Squads of police had to carry them out feet first to waiting patrol wagons.

SCOUTS SWARM THROUGH CITY

Scouts from centres throughout B.C. were having a "whale" of a time today before Queen's Scout ceremonies at Government House. A total of 312 Scouts were scheduled to receive certificates from Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes this afternoon in the annual ceremony. Vancouver Island and mainland Scouts arrived Wednesday and will leave Friday. At Thunderbird Park today

STEEL FIRMS INDICTED ON PRICE FIX

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted U.S. Steel Corporation, Bethlehem Steel Company and two other steel companies on charges of conspiring to fix prices and rig bids.

The indictment said the firms were for sales of steel forgings to the U.S. Army, Navy, electrical companies and other purchasers.

The indictments are not connected with the recent price increase in steel, in which U.S. Steel and Bethlehem posted a $6 per ton increase, then withdrew it under pressure from the Kennedy administration.

New Violence Rocks Algeria

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Europeans massed in central Algiers today amid a continuing wave of violence.

Armed riot police rushed to the area of the central post office, armored cars blocked side streets and light planes hovered overhead as the Europeans gathered. No reason for the massing was given.

Terrorists killed 16 persons throughout the North African country today. Ten of the dead and wounded were victims of pistol and tommy-gun attacks in Algiers by the Secret Army Organization.

The other six dead were in the western port city of Oran.

Keep Debates in House, Diefenbaker Tells Pearson

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today that Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson had his chance to debate the election issues in the Commons.

"That's where the debating is done," he said at a press conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker was commenting further on Wednesday night's challenge by the Liberal leader in a speech at Charlotte town, for a face-to-face television and radio debate on the election issues.

Wednesday night the Progressive Conservative prime minister dismissed this, saying, "I am not interested in providing TV audiences for others."

U.S. Hits Moon With Spacecraft

JAPAN WORKS WITH U.S. ON ROCKET

WASHINGTON (AP)—Japan and the United States jointly launched an ionosphere-probing rocket today.

The experiment, consisting of separate Japanese and U.S. probes attached to a Nike-Cajon sounding rocket, was sent aloft from Wallops Island, Va. It was the first in a planned program of three.

The rocket reached an altitude of 75 miles and then plunged into the Atlantic Ocean.

New Sputnik Put In Orbit By Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today announced the launching of its fourth sputnik in six weeks.

Tass news agency said the new satellite, dubbed Cosmos 4, went into an orbit around the earth close to the calculated one and took 90.6 minutes to make its first circuit.

There was no indication that it was manned.

The news agency said Cosmos 4, like the other satellites of the Cosmos series launched on March 16, April 6 and April 24, was packed with instruments to investigate radiation and other conditions in space.

Cosmos 3 was sent off on its orbit last Tuesday—the day the United States launched the Ranger 4 rocket which hit the moon today.

The new satellite, Tass said, was circling the earth in a plane 65 degrees from the equator, and at a top elevation of 206 miles. Its lowest elevation was reported at 186 miles.

The announcement said a radio transmitter was sending signals on a frequency of 19.995 megacycles showing that equipment on the satellite was functioning normally.

2 More Shots In Secrecy

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (UPI)—The Air Force today launched two secret satellites from this Pacific missile range base presumably intended to gain more information on radiation in space and how to defend the against nuclear attack.

The Air Force at first announced it fired a satellite powered by an Atlas Agena-B booster combination was launched.

This was similar to the known combination used in previous "sky spy" tests.

In neither case was there disclosure of whether the satellite attained orbit, or what either was intended to do.

RCN Officer Goes AWOL

HALIFAX (CP)—The navy said today officials in London are looking for the weapons officer of a Canadian destroyer who failed to report aboard when the ship left Portsmouth, England, April 12.

A spokesman said Lieut. Oliver J. Grenon, 34, of Halifax was considered absent without leave from the destroyer Kootenay.

Feat Hailed Despite 'Failure'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The United States scored a major advance in space today when the crippled spacecraft Ranger Four crash-landed on the far side of the moon.

It was the first U.S. success in seven attempts to land a piece of hardware on the moon, and virtually duplicated the feat of Russia's Lunik II, which hit the moon Sept. 12, 1959.

James E. Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, called the shot another in "the long strides in space we have made in the last year."

He said the Ranger Four was "much more complex than anything the Russians have attempted."

Dr. William Pickering, director of NASA's jet propulsion laboratory which built Ranger Four, said that despite the failure of a key electronic system in the spacecraft, the fact that it hit the moon "gives us confidence we can send instruments to the moon with the accuracy needed."

ANOTHER IN '62

He said another Ranger equipped to take close-up television pictures of the moon will be launched by the end of the year.

Although there was no way of seeing the actual impact, scientists said Ranger Four's trajectory before passing behind the moon assured that it would land in the predicted area.

The 700-pound vehicle, launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Monday, completed the 231,486-mile journey to the moon in 64 hours.

Electronic failures kept Ranger Four from completing most of its missions. It carried several scientific instruments, including a television camera to take closeup pictures of the moon's surface. But a timer designed to operate these devices went haywire shortly after launching.

'Team' Satellite In Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The world's first international satellite, a product of the United States and Britain, soared into orbit today to explore the ionosphere and cosmic radiation.

Officials of the two countries jointly announced the satellite was in successful orbit after tracking instruments at Cape Canaveral received radio signals from it at the completion of a two-hour path around the globe.

A Thor-Delta rocket blasted off from the cape at 1:01 p.m. (EST) and performed perfectly in racking up its eighth straight satellite launching success.

Ground trackers established soon after the launching that the second and third stages had ignited successfully, and that the payload had separated in space.

This is one of many cooperative space exploration efforts the United States plans with other countries.

WORKED TWO YEARS

U.S. and British scientists worked closely for more than two years to devise today's complex payload, which during the development stage was known by the code name S51.

The U.S.'s National Aeronautics and Space Administration provided the booster rocket, designed and built the satellite structure and installed power and radio tracking equipment.

Four British universities fashioned the six scientific experiments. NASA's world-wide tracking system was to acquire data from the satellite and relay it to the British universities for analysis.

Bonner Not Told Of Phone Call

(See also Page 33)

Attorney-General Bonner today said he did not know that confessed boy-killer Charles Heathman's cousin phoned Vancouver police from Seattle 24 hours before he was picked up.

"Nobody has advised me of any call," he said.

During the 2½-day hunt for Heathman, which ended when a Victoria man spotted him in Seattle Monday afternoon, Mr. Bonner severely criticized the Vancouver Sun which had given $500 and a 12-hour "break" for Heathman's statement.

The paper replied that police had time and opportunity to pick up Heathman before he arrived in Seattle with his cousin, Mrs. Anna Willoughby.

Mrs. Willoughby added to the controversy Wednesday when she said she phoned Vancouver police from Seattle the day before he was picked up. She told police Heathman was with her and she would take him back Tuesday or Wednesday for commitment to the Crease Clinic.

day for commitment to the Crease Clinic.

WOULDN'T SAY

Deputy Police Chief Gordon Amburgee has denied that she said anything about returning to Vancouver. He said she refused to say where she and Heathman were staying in Seattle and police were not successful in tracing the pair.

Meanwhile, Vancouver radio station CKNW, which offered a $1,000 reward, said R. J. McMichael, 1269 Tattersall Drive, is definitely in line for part of the money but a final decision will have to be made by the police commission.

Mr. McMichael spotted Heathman in a Seattle bar and led police to him.

Mac to See De Gaulle

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan may meet with President de Gaulle in Paris after his return from the United States and Canada, diplomatic sources said today. The meeting would probably take place in June.

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

APRIL 26

Court of Assizes met and immediately adjourned, much to the annoyance of empaneled jurors who had made the long walk over the bridge for nothing.

The schooner Alpha discharged 71 tons of coal at Esquimalt for the use of Her Majesty's Ships.

The steamer Governor Douglas was caught by a high wind while coming alongside the Hudson Bay Company's wharf, and bumped against a small schooner moored there. Little damage was caused either ship, but a man who had been sitting on the rail of the schooner had a leg badly crushed. It was amputated later.

Ten Years Sentence For Drug Trafficking

'You Have Preyed On Minds, Bodies'

A 67-year-old man received a 10-year prison term in RCMP court here today for trafficking in narcotics. "You have preyed on the minds and bodies of other people," said Stipendiary Magistrate D. G. Ashby as he handed out the sentence to Chu Poy, 521 Fisgard.

Chu was arrested April 17 as he left the ferry terminal at Swartz Bay for Victoria aboard a bus. RCMP had mounted a 24-hour watch on the terminal after receiving a tip-off from Vancouver police that he was on his way.

He was taken to Sidney RCMP headquarters and searched. On him were found 100 capsules of heroin, worth about $10 each.

Two days later he appeared before Magistrate Ashby and pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking. Police said Chu was not himself a user of drugs.

Maximum penalty for trafficking under the Narcotics Act is life imprisonment.

Enumerators Needed For Election

Returning officer for the federal riding of Victoria today called for 175 volunteer enumerators to turn out at once in order to prepare for the June 18 election.

Edmund J. de St. Jorre said that enumerators for the riding, which comprises the city, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, and the Saanich "panhandle," must be found right away if the local electoral machinery is to operate properly and in time for the election. Enumeration is due to begin on Monday.

Volunteers will be processed immediately upon their getting in touch with the office, 847 Yates, EV-2-7942.

At the same time, Mr. de St. Jorre called for all those already appointed enumerators to pick up their kits at 9 a.m. on Saturday from the office.

Ferry Lifeboats Contract Awarded To Victoria Firm

Lifeboats for the two new B.C. Government ferries now building at Victoria Machinery Depot will be produced by a Victoria firm specializing in fiberglass construction and design.

A contract to build eight 26-foot boats, four for each ferry, has been awarded to Pelagic Construction & Design Ltd., 46 Songhees Rd., a firm headed by former Victoria naval officer-Capt. Dana Ramsay.

Cost of the eight will be about $22,000. Four of the boats will be propelled by conventional oars, the other four by a manually-operated rowing machine.

Capt. Ramsay said today he believed these are the largest fiberglass lifeboats to be built in Canada.

'BOUQUETS' FOR YOUNG 'SHUTTLES'

Despite occasional rancor over the amalgamation issue, city council can see and praise the best in Oak Bay. That became clear today in a notice of motion by Ald. Michael Griffin heaping praise on four local youngsters who won titles at last month's Canadian Junior Badminton Championships in Montreal.

Of the four persons singled out for congratulations in "bringing to . . . the community they represented great credit," three live in Oak Bay and only one in Victoria.

The four winners were Judith Hunter, 50 Beach Drive; Diana Godfrey, 2047 Newton Street; Alison Day-smith, 2150 Lansdowne Road; and Alexander Barlowen, 1551 Brooke Street.

Grit Chief Will Speak Here Tuesday

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson will speak at a Victoria rally in Central Junior High School Tuesday night as he launches his first B.C. federal election tour—a whirlwind 29-hour "mainstreet" dash to the coast and interior.

Mr. Pearson will arrive at Patricia Bay airport at 7 p.m. and will be whisked straight to the school for a speech and "public reception" from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

He will shake hands and mix with the crowd in the school gymnasium.

Appearing with him will be Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Groos and Victoria candidate Foster Ishwood.

It will be the first big meeting of the June 18 election campaign here.

Mr. Pearson will come back again, probably in June, for a major speech here.

The Liberal leader will start his B.C. visit with a morning press conference in Vancouver.

FLY TO KELOWNA
He will leave Victoria early next Wednesday morning and fly to Kelowna.

There a car cavalcade will take him touring downtown streets, and he will speak at a buffet luncheon at noon.

He will take off again right away for Cranbrook, where he will do some more "mainstreeting," shaking hands and chatting with local residents.

"Wherever there are 20 people or more, he will stop for a short speech," said a Liberal campaign official.

After his stroll through Cranbrook, Mr. Pearson will attend a coffee reception; make another speech, and fly off to Lethbridge and Calgary, where he has a night rally to address.

A great deal of his time will be spent in informal, on-the-street meetings. Liberal officials believe this is the way to get the best impression on voters.

EAGER BEAVER SWEEPERS BANISHED

RCN's Grilse Rouses USN

By MONTE ROBERTS

The Royal Canadian Navy's lone submarine, HMCS Grilse, has become a familiar sight in Juan de Fuca Strait since she arrived here last June.

But not so familiar that the United States Navy takes her for granted.

Wednesday Grilse, with Lt. Cmdr. Ed. Gigg in charge, was going about her lawful oceanic duties near the United States shore of the strait—her lawful occasion being to act as target for two RCN frigates, Antigonish and Beacon Hill, and a squadron of maritime patrol planes from the U.S. Navy base at Whidbey Island.

Just as Gigg ordered up-scope for a look around, two U.S. minesweepers—who were not taking part in the exercises—steamed into the area.

An alert sailor spotted the periscope, reported to the bridge, and the two 'sweepers altered course and bore down on the "strange" submarine at flank speed.

At which point one of the U.S. planes radioed the minesweepers, said this was an anti-submarine warfare exercise, and would the 'sweepers please go about their business?

Which they did.

Proudest ship in the RCN Pacific Command—and with good reason—is the frigate HMCS Stettler.

A unit of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron, on Friday she will receive two major trophies, the Pacific Command Sonar Proficiency Trophy, and the Admiral L. V. Murray Trophy, awarded each year to the ship with the best gunnery in the whole Canadian navy.

Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Flag Officer, Pacific coast, will present the trophies on Stettler's quarter-deck at 11:30.

Stettler's captain is Cmdr. Henry Vondette. Her sonar team is directed by Lt. William Panteluk, the gunnery crew by Sub-Lt. Anton F. Smith.

Nearly every type of ship currently in commission in the Pacific Command will be open to the public on Navy Day, May 19. It was announced today.

Open for inspection at HMC Dockyard and HMCS Naden will be the destroyer Ottawa, frigate Sussexvale, minesweeper Cowichan, submarine Grilse, and the visiting Royal Navy cruiser Belfast.

At Patricia Bay, where the navy's air squadron VU33 will be hosts, the frigate HMCS Jonquiere will invite visitors aboard.

On other May weekends, the navy will continue its Centennial year "open ship" policy at the CPR Belleville Dock, at the foot of Oswego.

On view May 5 and 6 will be the frigate, Jonquiere; 12 and 13 the destroyer Saguenay; 26 and 27, the submarine Grilse.

NEARLY 6,000
First ship to berth in the Inner Harbor to receive visitors was the destroyer Fraser, which was viewed by 5,962 visitors on the Easter weekend. The ship was commended by the flag officer in a message reading: "Your fine performance and splendid appearance have set a high standard for all ships."

DREDGING UNDER WAY AT MARINA SITE

Two-week job of dredging the boat basin at Oak Bay Marina started Wednesday after crews moved in clamshell bucket and mud barge. Part of reconstruction job to cost $450,000, aim is to deepen

moorage to a minimum three feet at low tide. Rig will take out some 2,500 yards of bottom muck, mostly clay. Next step will be to drive pilings for new floats.—(Photo by Jorgen Svendsen.)

... HERE AND THERE With NORMAN CRIBBENS

"Music which would tend to create noisy and boisterous conduct will not be tolerated," says that august body, the Liquor Control Board, in a province-wide directive to B.C. beer parlors.

Strangely, we used to be told that music "soothes the savage breast." But the LCB knows better. It knows that a seasoned beer-parlor patron, on hearing the strains of "Smoke gets in your eyes," is liable to get up and sock the smoker next to him.

Oh, we're a savage lot!

On the notice board of a Vancouver factory, where staff members proclaim what they have lost, appeared the note:

"MISSING—a kind word from the management!"

Congratulations to Mrs. Mary E. Stanford, 708 Vancouver, who recently passed the provincial driving test in her 83rd year.

Motor vehicles superintendent George Lindsay tells me there are 185 drivers in this province who are over 85 years of age—most of them men.

And there are 19,000 licensed drivers who are over 70. "Age is no limitation," says Mr. Lindsay. "Competence to drive and physical fitness are the only standards."

Victoria's Junior Symphony Orchestra, composed of students from all the high schools, is a joy to everyone. "It has more vim and vigor than the senior organization," said one critic.

Alan Macey, who recorded the orchestra's prize-winning performance in the recent Music Festival, declared: "I have never heard such exuberant playing."

Highland dancer Mrs. Heather Duncan Jolley is leaving for Ottawa next week.

Her husband, Edmund Jolley, is a geo-physicist who graduated recently from the University of British Columbia. He is going to Ottawa to join the staff of the Dominion Observatory.

Good luck to them both!

Clergymen from distant parts of Vancouver Island are attending the 60th session of the Anglican Synod of the diocese of British Columbia at Christ Church Memorial Hall. Among them are Rev. C. I. Lomas from Port Alice; Rev. H. J. Bibbs, Alert Bay; Rev. J. W. Leighton, Tofino; Rev. R. N. Muggford, Fanny Bay.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Annual meeting of the Silver Threads Service will be held Friday at 4 p.m. at 643 Broughton.

A petition to remove zoning classification permitting a funeral parlor at 1147-53 Fort Street was presented to City Hall Wednesday.

Linn A. Gale, 1037 Craigdarroch Road who was prominent in opposing the zoning a year ago, said most of the ratepayers in the 1100 block of Fort and Mears Streets have signed.

He said the funeral parlor zoning was created despite local opposition because of an application by Chaplin's Funeral Chapel, located on Quadra Street at present.

No funeral chapel has been established in the new zone since then so it should be wiped out, he maintained.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Since I am just starting to play cricket for the first time at school could you please tell me in what year the game was begun to be played? H.P.

A.—Earliest evidence is from a drawing depicting two men playing with a bat and ball dated 1250 B.C. The first major match of which the score survives is the Kent versus England match of 1744 at the Artillery ground in London, England.

Buttle Reservoir At Lowest Level

Buttle Lake on Central Vancouver Island is at its lowest level since 1947, but power and fisheries authorities say there will be no harmful effects.

The water level dropped to 710 feet last weekend, 15 feet below normal for this time of year.

By today it had crept up to 714 feet and is expected to rise as mountain snow melts and more rain falls.

Main reason for the low water is the snow pack is 30 per cent below normal.

Residents in the Campbell River area feared there might be a leak in the earthen dam at Upper Campbell dam and that the effects might be serious.

NO SHORTAGE

The authority, which operates the dam, is not expecting any shortage of water for Island power requirements.

If the lake were much below normal two years in a row, there might be trouble. But the merger of B.C. Electric and B.C. Power Commission has provided ample reserves for any such event.

The only harmful effect might be a small drop in the fish population.

However, a provincial fish and game official said, "I don't believe there will be any serious effects."

He said a very sudden drop could be harmful, but all indications are that the level will rise again with forecasts of a wet May, and there will be plenty of food to maintain the fish population this summer.

They, too, were remanded a week.

Lawyer David Hummel asked Magistrate Ostler to remand the case without election or plea and applied for bail.

Mr. Ostler set bail at $500 and remanded Mrs. Smith to May 3.

Shortly afterwards Mr. Hummel appeared again on behalf of Smith and Stefansson and asked the magistrate for a further remand in their case "in view of this morning's arrest."

Youth Leader Plan Approved by Synod

Appointment of a full-time youth leader for the Anglican diocese of British Columbia—embracing all parishes of Vancouver Island—was approved today by the diocesan synod.

The synod unanimously adopted a motion from Comox delegates that "an experienced youth leader" be appointed as soon as possible.

"The work of the church will never progress until we have strong virile leadership for our young people," said Dr. G. G. Reynolds of the Comox deanery. "Many of our clergymen are not of the age and do not have the experience for this work."

He stated that the women's auxiliary of the diocese has offered to contribute $1,500 towards the salary of the man or woman appointed.

The synod's executive committee was instructed to determine salary and living costs and whether the youth leader shall be a man or a woman.

WARNING

Archbishop Harold Sexton approved the resolution but added this warning:

"No one is going to be let loose in this diocese without first taking an oath of canonical obedience to the bishop of the diocese. That should be fully understood at the outset."

Rev. R. F. Stevenson of Shawinigan Lake School said the appointment was vital to the future of the diocese and "the cost of it should be left in God's hands."

Girl Assault Admitted

Stuart Owen Duffey, 450 Belmont, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of indecently assaulting a 12-year-old girl Feb. 20 and was remanded to May 4 for sentence.

Police said he picked up the girl at Bay and Rose and offered her 50 cents to show him the way to a drug store.

When she was in the car Duffey drove her to Montrose Avenue, where he took her into some bushes and assaulted her, they said.

Magistrate William Ostler ordered a probation report after prosecutor Angus Smith said Duffey would face further charges in other courts.

Cousin Still Not Convinced Heathman Confession True

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Anna Willoughby, cousin of Charles Heathman, said Wednesday she still isn't convinced that Heathman told the truth when he confessed last week to the murder of 10-year-old Vernon newsboy Donald Otley.

"The main thing now is that he get psychiatric treatment so we can find out the truth," she said in an interview.

"For the sake of the parents of the slain boy and for all concerned, he should receive this treatment," she said. "I feel he needs it, just as hundreds of other people need it."

Mrs. Willoughby went to Seattle with Heathman after he made his confession to the Vancouver Sun Friday. She said she didn't know about the confession then.

When she learned Vancouver police were looking for Heathman, she said, she telephoned police here and told them she and Heathman would be returning to Vancouver on Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest.

"I told them that as soon as we arrived I would be committing him to Crease Clinic. Police said that would be fine. He wanted me to commit him. I presume he still wants that.

"I don't know whether his confession was true or not. I don't know whether he confessed because it was true or because he wanted the money. I saw him in the jail in Seattle, and I still don't know if he is telling the truth."

The Sun said it paid Heathman $500 for the confession, which was published Saturday.

"I was horrified when I saw what came out in the paper," said Mrs. Willoughby. "It's such a horrible, tragic affair. What must the parents be going through?"

$600 MINK TAKEN FROM LOCKED CAR

A $600 mink stole was taken from a car in the parking lot of Royal Jubilee Hospital between 7:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Owner, Mrs. Edna Marson, 3971 Cedar Hill Cross Road, told police the thief had entered the car by forcing open a no-draft window.

Earlier in the day a thief jimmied the rear door of Victoria Photo Supply, 1015 Douglas, and escaped with $152 in bills from the cash register.

The theft occurred at 1:15 p.m. when the store was closed for lunch.

Dr. Duffus, assisted by Lt. Cmdr. Bruce Arnold of the mathematics department, and Prof. J. K. Kinnear of the physics department, received his grant for continuation of his geomagnetic research, related to airborne facilities for underwater detection.

Increased knowledge on effects of radiation on living chemical processes is the target of research being conducted by Dr. Bricknell. Working with him on the project is Dr. R. F. Grant, member of the Royal Roads chemistry department.

Dr. Grigg is working on a complicated project related to density structures of upper levels of the sea.

Detailed studies into the size of ions in transition metals are being conducted by Dr. Montgomery in conjunction with the University of Washington.

TORONTO (UPI)—A Trans-Canada Airlines Viscount with 36 persons aboard made an emergency landing today at Toronto International Airport.

Crash crews were called out when the pilot reported a leak had developed in the hydraulic system and the wheels could not be lowered. But the plane made a perfect landing after the crew used the fluid in an emergency hydraulic plant.

Cars, Homes 'Bombed' With Paint

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—A car and several homes owned by local contractors have been spattered with aluminum paint "bombs," police report. About 2,500 construction workers have been on strike since April 11, halting about 500 projects between Montreal and the Quebec-Maine border.

RUSK ON A-TESTS:

'We'll Keep Trying For Treaty'

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk said today the U.S. will make every possible effort to achieve a treaty banning nuclear tests in spite of its new round of atmospheric tests in the Pacific.

Rusk told a press conference that nations and people around the world deeply regret that the nuclear arms race goes on, but he said there is a deep understanding of the United States' need for testing in view of Russia's rejection of an effective test ban treaty.

The U.S. itself regrets the necessity for the decision to test, Rusk declared, but he said the country must meet its responsibilities.

On other foreign affairs problems, Rusk told reporters:

Berlin—In his talks with Soviet leaders agreements have not been worked out on any particular point, in spite of a statement by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko earlier this week that some agreements in principle had been achieved. A number of issues related to Berlin could fall into place readily if the central dispute over the future of the city were settled.

Disarmament—Russia's refusal to accept an international inspection system to safeguard a nuclear test ban gives a gloomy outlook for general disarmament.

Summit—Soviet Premier Khrushchev's recent statement that any new summit conference should be carefully prepared means there is a sober realization on all sides that any new summit meeting would not be allowed to fail.

Reds Show Anger, Remain at Talks

Times News Services
GENEVA—Russia's Semyon K. Tsarapkin violently denounced United States nuclear tests today but did not walk out of three-nation test ban talks.

Tsarapkin sat through the two-hour meeting of the test ban subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament conference without staging the walk-out threatened last week by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin.

The deadlocked subcommittee met under the chairmanship of U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean. Dean said the subcommittee would meet again next week and added: "There was not the slightest suggestion of a Soviet walkout." Zorin last week indicated the Geneva negotiations would come to an end if the United States started its new test series.

CHARGES AGGRESSION

In a plenary session of the conference earlier today, Zorin angrily described the U.S. tests as "an aggressive act directed against the whole world" but made no move to walk out of the conference. He did not attend the subcommittee meeting, where Tsarapkin usually is the negotiator.

Britain's Joseph Godber said there was "a continuation of abuse from the Soviet delegate at the subcommittee meeting."

At the plenary session, Zorin said the U.S. knew that its test in the Pacific Wednesday

Three Slain After Wild Car Chase

ELMWOOD PARK, Ill. (AP)—Two men and a woman were shot to death today as they sat in a wrecked car at the end of a relentless chase.

The victims, killed by 38-caliber pistol shots, were identified by police as: Phillip Scavo, 36, of Elmwood Park, a massive man who formerly managed a tavern-restaurant.

Ronald Scavo of Chicago, younger brother of Phillip, Lydia Abshire, 28, of Chicago, a divorcee who was employed in an appliance factory in this Chicago suburb.

The killings occurred shortly before 4 a.m. after Phillip Scavo's auto swerved from a street and smashed into a house, causing minor damage.

Keep Debates In House, Says John D

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today that Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson had his chance to debate the election issues in the Commons.

"That's where the debating is done," he said at a press conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker was commenting further on Wednesday night's challenge by the Liberal leader in a speech at Charlottetown, for a face-to-face television and radio debate on the election issues. (See page 12)

Wednesday night the Progressive Conservative prime minister dismissed this, saying, "I am not interested in providing TV audiences for others."

His comments today obviously had in mind the Kennedy-Nixon TV debates of the 1960 United States election campaign.

"Our system is different from the American system," he said. "We meet in constant debate if the leader of the opposition is in the Commons and not out in the country. That's where the debating is done. In the United States that isn't so."

Mr. Diefenbaker also described as "simply not true" an Ottawa news report that, at the last caucus of Conservative MPs in Ottawa, he had promised that salaries of MPs would be increased to $15,000 from $10,000 if his government was returned.

He said he doesn't think there was any discussion of that at the caucus. But he added: "Generally across the country there is a feeling that salaries in all fields of endeavor in the national service should be given consideration."

Congo Police Battle Baluba Tribesmen

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—A gunfight between Katangan police and Baluba tribesmen broke out today in the huge Baluba refugee camp here guarded by the United Nations force.

European eyewitnesses said UN Irish troops opened fire to break up the fighting and a number of Congolese were believed killed.

But an Irish spokesman later said the UN men fired no shots and nobody was believed killed although three Balubas were injured.

The half-hour clash occurred on the edge of the Baluba camp which is situated near the Irish camp. The refugee tribesmen and the Katangan police both dispersed when four Irish armored cars and a platoon of Irish troops appeared.

SCOUTS SWARM THROUGH CITY

Scouts from centres throughout B.C. were having a "whale" of a time today before Queen's Scout ceremonies at Government House. A total of 312 Scouts were scheduled to receive certificates from Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes this afternoon in the annual ceremony. Vancouver Island and mainland Scouts arrived Wednesday and will leave Friday. At Thunderbird Park today

STEEL FIRMS INDICTED ON PRICE FIX

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted U.S. Steel Corporation, Bethlehem Steel Company and two other steel companies on charges of conspiring to fix prices and rig bids.

The indictment said the bids were for sales of steel forgings to the U.S. Army, Navy, electrical companies and other purchasers.

The indictments are not connected with the recent price increase in steel, in which U.S. Steel and Bethlehem posted a $6 per ton increase, then withdrew it under pressure from the Kennedy administration.

RCN Officer Goes AWOL

HALIFAX (CP)—The navy said today officials in London are looking for the weapons officer of a Canadian destroyer who failed to report aboard when the ship left Portsmouth, England, April 12. A spokesman said Lieut. Oliver J. Grenon, 34, of Halifax was considered absent without leave from the destroyer Kootenay.

The Kootenay, of the Fifth Escort Squadron, arrived here April 19 after NATO exercises and visits to European ports.

Mac to See De Gaulle

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan may meet with President de Gaulle in Paris after his return from the United States and Canada, diplomatic sources said today. The meeting would probably take place in June.

Bonner Not Told Of Phone Call

(See also Page 33)

Attorney-General Bonner today said he did not know that confessed boy-killer Charles Heathman's cousin phoned Vancouver police from Seattle 24 hours before he was picked up.

"Nobody has advised me of any call," he said.

During the 2½-day hunt for Heathman, which ended when a Victoria man spotted him in Seattle Monday afternoon, Mr. Bonner severely criticized the Vancouver Sun which had given $500 and a 12-hour "break" for Heathman's statement.

The paper replied that police had time and opportunity to pick up Heathman before he arrived in Seattle with his cousin, Mrs. Anna Willoughby.

Mrs. Willoughby added to the controversy Wednesday when she said she phoned Vancouver police from Seattle the day before he was picked up.

Heathman was staying in Seattle and police were not successful in tracing the pair.

Meanwhile, Vancouver offered a $1,000 reward, said R. J. McMichael, 1289 Tattersall Drive, is definitely in line for part of the money but a final decision will have to be made by the police commission.

Mr. McMichael spotted Heathman in a Seattle bar and led police to him.

New Violence Rocks Algeria

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Europeans massed in central Algiers today amid a continuing wave of violence throughout Algeria.

Armed riot police rushed to the area of the central post office, armored cars blocked side streets and light planes hovered overhead as the Europeans gathered. No reason for the massing was given.

Terrorists killed 16 persons throughout the North African country today. Ten of the dead and wounded were victims of pistol and tommy-gun attacks in Algiers by the Secret Army Organization.

That moon shot is like th' Irishman who w'd give ye a pat on th' back in front o' yer face, but a punch in th' eye b'ind yer back.

U.S. Spacecraft Crashes on Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The United States scored a major advance in space today when the crippled spacecraft Ranger Four crash-landed on the far side of the moon.

It was the first U.S. success in seven attempts to land a piece of hardware on the moon, and virtually duplicated the feat of Russia's Lunik II, which hit the moon Sept. 12, 1959.

James E. Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, called the shot another in "the long strides in space we have made in the last year."

He said the Ranger Four was "much more complex than anything the Russians have attempted."

Dr. William Pickering, director of NASA's jet propulsion laboratory which built Ranger Four, said that despite the failure of a key electronic system in the spacecraft, the fact that it hit the moon "gives us confidence we can send instruments to the moon with the accuracy needed."

ANOTHER IN '62

He said another Ranger equipped to take close-up television pictures of the moon will be launched by the end of the year.

Although there was no way of seeing the actual impact, scientists said Ranger Four's trajectory before passing behind the moon assured that it would land in the predicted area.

The 700-pound vehicle, launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Monday, completed the 231,486-mile journey to the moon in 64 hours.

Electronic failures kept Ranger Four from completing most of its missions. It carried several scientific instruments, including a television camera to take closeup pictures of the moon's surface. But a timer designed to operate these devices went haywire shortly after launching.

Scientists at the U.S. Space Agency's jet propulsion laboratory, where Ranger Four was built, tracked its faint radio beacon with an 85-foot diameter dish-shaped antenna at the Goldstone Tracking Station on the Mojave Desert 50 miles north of Barstow, Calif.

New Sputnik Put In Orbit By Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today announced the launching of its fourth sputnik in six weeks.

Tass news agency said the new satellite, dubbed Cosmos 4, went into an orbit around the earth close to the calculated one and took 90.6 minutes to make its first circuit.

There was no indication that it was manned.

The news agency said Cosmos 4, like the other satellites of the Cosmos series launched on March 16, April 6 and April 24, was packed with instruments to investigate radiation and other conditions in space.

Cosmos 3 was sent off on its orbit last Tuesday—the day the United States launched the Ranger 4 rocket which hit the moon today.

The new satellite, Tass said, was circling the earth in a plane 65 degrees from the equator, and at a top elevation of 206 miles. Its lowest elevation was reported at 186 miles.

The announcement said a radio transmitter was sending signals on a frequency of 19.995 megacycles showing that equipment or the satellite was functioning normally.

Starr to Name Rail Chairman

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Labor Minister Starr said today he expects to nominate at the beginning of next week a chairman for a conciliation board to hear arguments in a contract dispute between Canada's 110,000 non-operating railway employees and the country's railways.

JAPAN WORKS WITH U.S. ON ROCKET

WASHINGTON (AP)—Japan and the United States jointly launched an ionosphere-probing rocket today.

The experiment, consisting of separate Japanese and U.S. probes attached to a Nike-Cajon sounding rocket, was sent aloft from Wallops Island, Va. It was the first in a planned program of three.

The rocket reached an altitude of 75 miles and then plunged into the Atlantic Ocean.

Team Satellite In Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The world's first international satellite, a product of the United States and Britain, soared into orbit today to explore the ionosphere and cosmic radiation.

Officials of the two countries jointly announced the satellite was in successful orbit after tracking instruments at Cape Canaveral received radio signals from it at the completion of a two-hour path around the globe.

A Thor-Delta rocket blasted off from the cape at 1:01 p.m. (EST) and performed perfectly in racking up its eighth straight satellite launching success.

Ground trackers established soon after the launching that the second and third stages had ignited successfully, and that the payload had separated in space.

This is one of many cooperative space exploration efforts the United States plans with other countries.

WORKED TWO YEARS

U.S. and British scientists worked closely for more than two years to devise today's complex payload, which during the development stage was known by the code name S51.

The U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration provided the booster rocket, designed and built the satellite structure and installed power and radio tracking equipment.

Four British universities fashioned the six scientific experiments. NASA's world-wide tracking system was to acquire data from the satellite and relay it to the British universities for analysis.

2 More Shots In Secrecy

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (UPI)—The Air Force today launched two secret satellites from this Pacific missile range base presumably intended to gain more information on radiation in space and how to defend the against nuclear attack.

The Air Force at first announced it fired a satellite powered by an Atlas Agena-B booster combination was launched.

This was similar to the known combination used in previous "sky spy" tests. In neither case was there disclosure of whether the satellite attained orbit, or what either was intended to do.
